Middletown Zone Shift May Be Law August 3d

Triple School Sessions Seen Unless Fine Vetoes Measure

All township schools in Lower Bucks County will hold triple sessions two years from now unless Gov. John S. Fine vetoes a bill now on his desk, Regional Superintendent Medill Bair of Pennsbury School District, said this morning. The bill has been passed by the senate and house.

The bill Bair said, would stop the appropriation of state school-building funds, until the next biennial term of the State Legislature. Only $20,000,000 would be left for new schools until then.

"I feel that the state legislature has shown themselves to be very shortsighted about the school problems of Lower Bucks County," the superintendent said.

Bucks County School Superintendent Dr. Charles H. Boehm is in Harrisburg today discussing the measure. If the bill becomes law, only the $20,000,000 of an original $250,000,000 appropriation, will be available until 1955.

Pennsbury District, with other school districts in this area is engaged in a large-scale building program to accommodate the fast influx of people, according to Bair.

He said Pennsbury has rushed an application to the State Department of Public Instruction for a $2,500,000 junior high school for Levittown and Fairless Hills.

The Pennsbury district also is in urgent need of two $1,000,000 elementary schools, Bair said. Bair said the junior high application "is not going to do any good," as no action is expected from the Public Instruction Department before Saturday, when the Legislature will adjourn.

"The new school isn't likely to be built for two years," Bair said. He predicted that Gov. Fine will be forced to call an emergency session of the Legislature to allot more school-building funds.

Dr. Boehm said yesterday that several Lower Bucks County districts are rushing their applications to Harrisburg, before the new bill becomes law. He said applications are being made for schools in Levittown, Laurel Bend, Newportville Heights and Quakertown.

Already, 7,000 of the 16,000 students in this area are on double sessions because of a school shortage, Dr. Boehm said. He predicted 6,000 new students in the area next year.

Approval Expected

WASHINGTON — The House Judiciary Committee is expected today to approve President Eisenhower's refugee program despite a strong effort to keep the measure off the House floor. Even die-hard opponents conceded that they could not muster enough votes to block the President's proposal to admit 240,000 refugees to the U. S. during the next two years.

Texas Gets Rain

MARILLO, Tex. — The heaviest rain to hit the Amarillo area in more than a year today brought a halt to the area's drought. More than three inches of rain fell on the parched ground. Flash floods caused $150,000 damage just as the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce was debating the hiring of a rainmaker to seed the clouds.

'No Love Talk'

PERTH, AUSTRALIA — Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia said today the recent Commonwealth conference in London did not discuss Princess Margaret's reported romance with RAF Capt. Peter Townsend. Menzies said—"if the conference discussed all rumors circulating about the Princess, they would not have done any other business."

Strikes Continue

BERLIN—New hunger riots and sitdown strikes were reported today to have swept through East Germany in mounting protests over shortages and Communist oppression. Soviet officers reportedly threatened the strikers with "harsh measures" unless they resumed work.

Korean Seesaw

SEOUL — A 3,500-man Chinese assault hurled South Korean troops off the top of a key height on the east-central front today in a seesaw battle that was still raging at dusk despite signs of an imminent armistice. At the same time, Allied naval and air forces struck heavy new blows at Red installations in perhaps the waning days of the devastating Korean war.

Lower Bucks Cools Under Heavy Rain

Farmers See 'Boon' In Downpour

Lower Bucks County is finally getting a break in the weather, according to two U. S. Government agencies.

Rain which began at about 2:30 this morning is reviving the dried lawns in water-short Bristol and aiding thirsty crops all over the county which received just a "teaser" in Sunday night's downpour.

The rain was described by the Bucks County Extension Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Doylestown, as a "tremendous boon" for county farmers.

From Trenton, N. J., George Whitely, a meteorologist of the U. S. Weather Bureau station, said the showers will end today and leave Lower Bucks with a cool and dry week-end.

The rain is forerunner of a cold front, blowing in from Canada, Whitely said.

"We have had an inch of rain in Trenton already," Whitely said at 8:30 this morning, "and we expect another. I think the ground needed the rain badly. The storms came and went too fast and left the ground pretty dry."

Friends Fund Drive Ends Monday Night With Social Fete

The combined membership and fund drive conducted in Levittown by the Friends Service Association on behalf of the William Penn Center in Fallsington will be concluded Monday night with a meeting and social evening of all section captains and solicitors, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. John Paubionsky, 33 Pebble Lane, coordinator of the drive.

Purpose of the meeting will be to learn final totals and celebrate the success of the drive, also give the workers a chance to get acquainted with each other and better acquainted with the center, said Mrs. Paubionsky.

Highlighting the evening will be two talks on the program of the Friends Service Association. Max Kleinbaum, regional director of the American Jewish Congress, will speak on "Community in Crisis—How We Can Help." Paul Blanchard, Jr., chairman of the board of directors of the FSA, will speak on the "Why and Wherefore of the FSA Program."

"A wonderful job is being done, and the response of Levittown residents to the needs of the William Penn Center is very good," said Mrs. Paubionsky, which now is in its second week.

She added, however, that solicitors still are needed to give additional impetus to the last days of the campaign the goal of which is $5000 in Levittown. She named the Elderberry, Birch Valley and Pinewood sections as the community's "weaker spots."

Those still interested in serving as solicitors are asked by Mrs. Paubionsky to contact anyone of the following section captains:

Richard Shamins, 57 Emerald Lane; Helen Wald, 25 Evergreen Lane; Betty Ann Schnoll, 24 Flower Lane; John and Priscilla Lawrence, 56 Greenbrook Drive; Mary Sloan, 313 Lakeside Drive; Molly Kipnis, 40 Maple Lane; Norma Shaw, 59 Pensive Lane; Peace Paubionsky, 33 Pebble Lane; Al Eastburn, 127 Stonybrook Drive; Francis Schmidt, 37 Summer Lane; Charna Korson, 5 Stream Lane; Allen Woolston, 10 Teaberry Lane; Justine Schurman, 17 Wildrose Lane; Sylvia Kaplan, 21 Grove Lane; Miriam and Martin Laibow, 8 Burning Bush Lane; and Paul Studnia, 9 Burning Bush Lane.

POOL USE GRANTED

NEWTOWN, July 23—Permission has been granted by George School for Neshaminy Valley Youth Center to have use of the school's swimming pool during August. Youth Center may have use of the pool every Wednesday from 2-5 during August. Children of the ages of 8-18 are eligible.

NEW CD DIRECTOR

HARRISBURG, July 23—(INS)—Gov. John S. Fine has announced the appointment of Leo P. Brady, of New Britain, as civil defense director for Bucks County.

Kiss Booth Ban 'Undecided' For Levitt Players

The moot question of whether to establish a "kissing booth" at the forthcoming block party sponsored by the Levittown Players Saturday and Sunday, July 31 and August 1, is still undecided, Mrs. Ruth Bott, 50 Emerald lane, chairman of the fund-raising social, disclosed today.

The subject of the "kissing booth" is still raging among the Players, Mrs. Bott admitted, but she declined to say what decision will be taken by the committee except to say that a meeting scheduled for next Monday night probably will solve the burning issue.

Mrs. Bott said "kissing booths" in former years had proved a popular attraction, and is amazed at the storm which it created this year.

"After all, it is just a game, like the many others which we plan to sponsor," she opined. Other members, however, declined to see any "game" about it, and were grimly determined to continue their opposition to any "osculatory sport."

Three Charges Mark Hearings By Justice Melvin

FALLSINGTON, July 23—Among the charges at hearings conducted by Justice of the Peace John Melvin here yesterday were: surety of the peace, hit-and-run, and disorderly conduct.

One pleaded guilty and was fined; another held for court; and the third discharged.

Annetta Pace, 148 Birch drive, Levittown, who was arrested on complaint of Allen D. Willow, Levittown, was charged with hit-and-run drving on July 5. Bail imposed was $300.

Rocco Sicuilli, of N. 64th st., Philadelphia, arrested by William Bates, of the plant protection department, U. S. Steel Co., Falls twp., was charged with disorderly conduct. Pleading guilty, Sicuilli was fined $15, and costs.

The charge against Joseph Pala, of S. Lafayette st., Morrisville, was surety of peace. He was discharged. The arrest was made by Constable Isaac Watson on complaint of Pala's wife, Pasqualina.

Dominic Roarty Dies in Hospital

Following three weeks illness in Nazareth Hospital, Philadelphia, Dominic J. Roarty, 838 Pine street, died last evening.

Born in Scotland, Mr. Roarty had been a resident here 32 years, formerly residing at Tresckow, Pa. He was a retired employee of Pennsylvania Railroad.

Survivors include his wife, Catherine G. Roarty; nine sons and daughters: James D. Roarty, Beaufort, N. C.; Joseph M. Roarty, Mayfair; Sister M. Laboure, I.H.M., Phila.; John P. Roarty, Croydon; Mrs. George Hoffman, Bristol; Mrs. Hubert Guirk, Springfield; Mrs. John Saunders, Hulmeville; William J. Roarty, Francis X. Roarty, Bristol; 11 grandchildren.

Relatives and friends are invited to attend rites Monday at 9 a. m. from William I. Murphy Est. Funeral Home, 1002 Radcliffe st., with solemn requiem mass in St. Mark's R. C. Church at 10 a. m. Friends are invited to call Sunday evening. Interment will be in St. Mark's Cemetery.

Dog Graduation Slated at Camp

FALLINGSTON, July 23 — Regardless of whether it rains tonight or not, the scheduled "graduation" of dogs at the Windsor Kennel Club exercises will be held at 7 p. m. tonight, the committee reports.

If the rains cause cancellation of the outdoor event at Summer-Dale Day Camp, Eddington, the program will be held indoors. In any event, trophies will be awarded the dogs rated best in the obedience class.

RAIN CANCELS TRIP

Rain early in the day cancelled a trip by Cub Pack No. 39, Edgely, to Connie Mack Stadium, this afternoon. Another game is scheduled August 1. Cubs are asked to contact den mothers for details.

1000 to Attend $2,750,000 H. S. In Bensalem Twp.

47 Modern Rooms Mark Construction

Although the completed Bensalem Jr. and Sr. high school will hold 1200 people, not more than 900 to 1,000 are expected to attend the $2,750,000 school when it opens for sessions for the 1954-1955 school term.

The school, to be located on Street road west of Hulmeville road, will have 47 different rooms to be used as classrooms.

The school is now located on a 30-acre site, but there is possibility of increasing it. Since the athletic fields are to be located to the rear of the building, Robert Shafer, superintendent of Bensalem Twp. School District, says, "They don't think they have quite enough land."

H. F. Everett Associates, Allentown, is the architect for the new building, and H. Bornstein & Sons is the contractor. The building will be of concrete block construction and faced with brick. It is being financed by bonds through the Bensalem Twp. Municipal Authority.

A two-section gym, which will seat 1500 when opened, an auditorium seating 750, a cafeteria seating 450, a library accommodating 120, 47 possible classrooms, a medical and dental suite and administrative offices comprise the Bensalem Jr. and Sr. high school.

The classrooms are within state limitations and will not feature anything that would "make headlines," says Shafer. Each room will, however, have a built-in closet; a built-in teachers unit, consisting of a closet, display case, magazine rack, and storage closet; a magnetic green chalk board; and one full wall will be of glass.

"So as to make it convenient for food to be served," the auditorium

Philadelphian Suffers Injured Back in Plant Fall

Chris Dobra, 2068 Bridge street, Philadelphia, was taken to Nazareth Hospital yesterday by the Bucks County Rescue Squad. Dobra suffered back injuries at a local plant, according to the squad.

Other persons transported by the squad include: Mrs. Ethel Rogers, 248 Hayes street, Bristol, returned to her home from Abington Hospital; Gertrude Herema, from the Marydell School, Langhorne, to Mercer Hospital, Trenton; and Sister Bernard, St. Elizabeth's Convent, Cornwells, to Nazareth Hospital.

The squad was called upon to take: Mrs. Jean Benett, 900 Emily avenue, Croydon, to the Nazareth Hospital; Mrs. William Hess, Edgely avenue, Edgely, to Mercer Hospital, Trenton; and Mr. Kulikowski, Third and New York avenues, Croydon, to his home after he suffered a sunstroke at New York and Cedar avenues, Croydon.

Cornerstone Laying Set for Newtown

NEWTOWN, July 23 — The laying of the corner stone of the new Macedonia Baptist Church on North State street will be held July 26 at 3:30 p. m. Officers of Trilumium Lodge 89 F. & A. M., Bristol, and the Most Worship Prince Hall Lodge, F. & A. M., of the State of Penna., will officiate.

A worship service in the present church will precede laying of the corner stone, at three p. m. with the Rev. E. D. Fell, pastor of Second Baptist Church, Bristol, the principal speaker. His topic will be "We Are About a Great Work." The Rev. Mr. Fell will be introduced by the Rev. Edmund McGee, pastor of First Baptist Church, Pennlyn.

Special music will be presented by the male choir of the Bristol Church under direction of Mrs. Helen Harris, organist.

Introduction of the Grand Lodge officers will conclude the service.

Among the items to be placed in the corner stone will be a membership roll of the church, billhead of the builder, names of the sub-contractors, also a silver dollar.

The Rev. J. H. Reid, is pastor of the local church.

Princeton Man Held for Jury In Yardley Slaying

FALLSINGTON, July 23—Charged with the murder of his estranged wife, last June 28, Joshua Goodwyn, 32, of Princeton, N. J., last night was held without bail for the Bucks county grand jury.

He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace John Melvin after being arrested at Mercer County Hospital, Trenton, N. J., Tuesday night by Chief Raymond S. Hoagland of the Yardley police department.

Goodwyn did not testify at the hearing.

Two police officers, Chief Hoagland and Chief County Detective Frank Kohler told the court that Goodwyn was visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, Robert Dean, at 193 S. Canal st., Yardley, when he entered the room where his wife, Gladys, was viewing television, and shot her with a .22 calibre rifle, then attempted suicide by shooting himself.

Morris Carter Dies; Lived Here 68 Years

A resident here 68 years, Morris E. Carter died suddenly last evening at the home of his son and daughter - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Carter, 555 Swain street.

Mr. Carter, a retired employee of Penna. Railroad, had had a lengthy illness. He was husband of the late Mrs. Sarah Carter.

The Rev. Ralph Proud, pastor of Bristol Methodist Church, will officiate at services Saturday, 10.30 a. m., Molden Funeral Chapel, 133 Otter st. Friends are invited to call Friday evening. Interment will be in Bristol Cemetery.

Two Unhurt In Crash Here

Cars driven by Charles J. Lichan, 1449 North 28th street, Philadelphia, and Santo Fiuman, 1842 Farragut avenue, Bristol, collided this morning at the intersection of Farragut avenue and Monroe street, Bristol, according to the borough police.

Lichan had been traveling west on Farragut avenue, when he started to make a left turn onto Monroe street. Police said Fiuman was going east on Farragut before the two cars collided.

The right doors on both cars were damaged, and also the fender on Fiuman's automobile. No one was injured in the accident which Patrolman Alonso VanZant investigated.

Bensalem Smog Petitions Still On

Despite the fact that complaints about the annoying smog in Cornwells Manor have stopped, Robert L. O'Neal, president of the Bensalem Township Taxpayers' Association, said yesterday he still will circulate a petition demanding the supervisors take immediate action.

Several volunteers, O'Neal said, are planning to help him acquire signatures for the petition which will probably be circulated some time this week-end.

70 Children Sign For Crafts Camp At Penn Center

A full registration of 70 children has been reported for the second period of the Crafts Camp which began at the William Penn Center, Fallsington, Tuesday, sponsored by the Friends Service Association.

Mrs. Bertie Wood, director of the camp, said the first two-week period was completed with great satisfaction on the part of the campers, the staff of leaders and herself.

Highlighting the first camping period were two trips taken by the children on July 10 and July 17. The first trip took them to Windward Beach, N. J., while Camp Onas, Rushland, Pa., was the destination of their second trip.

"They really had a good time, both were good places for such a group," said Mrs. Wood of the 55 children and 10 mothers who travelled to the outings.

The new group of children are scheduled to visit the Lost Cave at Hellertown, Pa., tomorrow, reported Mrs. Wood.

King's New Bill Would Rule Onions

Congressman Karl King (R. Pa.) today introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to amend the Commodity Exchange Act to put futures trading in onions under Commodity Exchange rules.

King said the fluctuations in the onion trading market of the last few years have caused many complaints from grower interests to the effect that unregulated speculation in this semi-perishable commodity has interfered with the normal stability of the market.

This bill should give the various interests of the onion industry a chance to record their arguments, either for or against regulation.

Bensalem Officials Confer Tonight

The Bensalem Township Authority and the Lower Southampton Township Supervisors will hold a joint meeting tonight according to C. Burnley White, authority member.

They plan to discuss the water and sewer situation in the upper section of Bensalem township, and the lower part of Southampton.

Daughter Named WCTU Head After Mother Retires

YARDLEY, July 23 — Declaring 25 years as president was "long enough", Mrs. Lucy A. Harper yesterday retired as head of the Yardley Women's Christian Temperance Union after a quarter-century of service. Her daughter, Mrs. Gladys A. Harper, was elected to succeed her by the members, who paid tribute to Mrs. Harper's outstanding service to the organization.

Other officers elected are: Mrs. Jacqueline Daugherty, vice president; Mrs. Edith Bilbee, secretary; Mrs. Ella Kennedy, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Susan Force, treasurer.

Attending the meeting were officers of the Bucks County WCTU and members of the Bristol group. Rev. Philip Palmer of the Yardley Methodist Church, conducted devotions. County officers who addressed the group were Mrs. Anna Shaudys, president; Mrs. Clayton Zetty, vice president; Jane Rogers, recording secretary, and Mrs. Norman Kratz, director of child welfare. Mrs. Samuel Pearson, president of the Bristol WCTU, gave a brief address.

Reports were submitted by the directors of the following departments: Mrs. Helen Parsons, child welfare; Mrs. Jane Daugherty, institutes; Mrs. Force, legislation; Miss Harper, publicity and scrap book; Mrs. Anna White, temperance and missions; Mrs. Edith Allen, union signal; Ethel Girton, motion pictures; Mrs. Lillian Hampton, program chairman, and Mrs. Helen Parsons, white ribbon recruits.

Other reports were submitted by Mrs. Ida Wharton, religious education; Elizabeth Weeks, flower mission, and Mrs. Marjorie Blinn, soldiers and sailors.

Mrs. Anna White, Homestead drive, Yardley, will be hostess at the next meeting August 31.

Twp. Family Picnic Slated Wednesday

The family picnic and father-son baseball game, scheduled to take place yesterday, for children attending the Bristol Township Day Camps at Maple Shade, Croydon, and Edgely Primary schools will be held Wednesday, from 5 to 8 p. m.

Along with these activities, campers will spend the day flying kites, airplanes, and in bubble-blowing contests.

All township children are invited to attend the activities being supervised by Henry Morgan, Doris Toriano, and Robert Ewald.

GOOD WILL TOUR

Members of Clinton J. Lewis Lodge, No. 201, I.B.P.O.E. of W., and Twilight Temple 106, and friends will travel by bus to Stroudsburg, on a good will tour to visit Monroe Lodge No. 513. Bus will leave the Elks Home Lake st., Aug. 1, at 7:45 P. M. Those desiring to participate may contact J. Earle Spencer or Ramon Dorsey by July 29.

Unopposed Bill Would Triple Industrial Area

Proposed zoning amendments would triple industrial space in Middletown twp., Charles P. Cella, supervisor of the University of Pennsylvania Government Consulting Service said last night at a hearing in the township building, Hulmeville road.

The new zoning plans, drawn up by the University organization with the Middletown supervisors, were described by Cella at a well-attended but orderly meeting.

Little opposition was shown, and leaders of two conflicting civic groups indicated their support of the zoning change. The supervisors are expected to adopt the ordinance at their next regular meeting, August 3, after a special session to discuss last night's testimony.

Opens Large Tract

The change opens for industrial use a large tract near the northeast corner of the township, doubles the width of commercial-zoned strips on both sides of Lincoln Highway, sets standards for shopping centers, large buildings, outdoor theaters and garden-type buildings, and requires "buffer zones" and parking space on lots.

The largest area that would be rezoned is a tract bounded by the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroad tracks, Langhorne - Yardley road and the east township boundary.

Residential and agricultural zones would be changed to light and heavy industrial. The Lincoln Highway commercial zones would be doubled to a 300-foot width.

Sub-Station Request

A request that electric sub-stations be permitted in residential zones was made by Henry S. Davis, manager of the Philadelphia Electric Co., Eastern Division. The stations would consist of a self-operated transformer units, enclosed and self-protected, Davis said, maintaining that in other townships "they haven't deteriorated property value."

"I guess there is no objection to having them included," said J. Russell Newbold, chairman of the township supervisors. "It was merely an oversight on our part."

Mrs. Gladys Jobson asked the supervisors why her 37-acre property at Janney was not rezoned to industrial as she had requested in a petition. The Neshaminy Joint

She added, however, that solicitors still are needed to give additional impetus to the last days of the campaign the goal of which is $5000 in Levittown. She named the Elderberry, Birch Valley and Pinewood sections as the community's "weaker spots."

Those still interested in serving as solicitors are asked by Mrs. Paubionsky to contact anyone of the following section captains:

Richard Shamins, 57 Emerald Lane; Helen Wald, 25 Evergreen Lane; Betty Ann Schnoll, 24 Flower Lane; John and Priscilla Lawrence, 56 Greenbrook Drive; Mary Sloan, 313 Lakeside Drive; Molly Kipnis, 40 Maple Lane; Norma Shaw, 59 Pensive Lane; Peace Paubionsky, 33 Pebble Lane; Al Eastburn, 127 Stonybrook Drive; Francis Schmidt, 37 Summer Lane; Charna Korson, 5 Stream Lane; Allen Woolston, 10 Teaberry Lane; Justine Schurman, 17 Wildrose Lane; Sylvia Kaplan, 21 Grove Lane; Miriam and Martin Laibow, 8 Burning Bush Lane; and Paul Studnia, 9 Burning Bush Lane.

NEW CD DIRECTOR

HARRISBURG, July 23—(INS)—Gov. John S. Fine has announced the appointment of Leo P. Brady, of New Britain, as civil defense director for Bucks County.

Kiss Booth Ban 'Undecided' For Levitt Players

The moot question of whether to establish a "kissing booth" at the forthcoming block party sponsored by the Levittown Players Saturday and Sunday, July 31 and August 1, is still undecided, Mrs. Ruth Bott, 50 Emerald lane, chairman of the fund-raising social, disclosed today.

The subject of the "kissing booth" is still raging among the Players, Mrs. Bott admitted, but she declined to say what decision will be taken by the committee except to say that a meeting scheduled for next Monday night probably will solve the burning issue.

Mrs. Bott said "kissing booths" in former years had proved a popular attraction, and is amazed at the storm which it created this year.

"After all, it is just a game, like the many others which we plan to sponsor," she opined. Other members, however, declined to see any "game" about it, and were grimly determined to continue their opposition to any "osculatory sport."

Three Charges Mark Hearings By Justice Melvin

FALLSINGTON, July 23—Among the charges at hearings conducted by Justice of the Peace John Melvin here yesterday were: surety of the peace, hit-and-run, and disorderly conduct.

One pleaded guilty and was fined; another held for court; and the third discharged.

Annetta Pace, 148 Birch drive, Levittown, who was arrested on complaint of Allen D. Willow, Levittown, was charged with hit-and-run drving on July 5. Bail imposed was $300.

Rocco Sicuilli, of N. 64th st., Philadelphia, arrested by William Bates, of the plant protection department, U. S. Steel Co., Falls twp., was charged with disorderly conduct. Pleading guilty, Sicuilli was fined $15, and costs.

The charge against Joseph Pala, of S. Lafayette st., Morrisville, was surety of peace. He was discharged. The arrest was made by Constable Isaac Watson on complaint of Pala's wife, Pasqualina.

1000 to Attend $2,750,000 H. S. In Bensalem Twp.

47 Modern Rooms Mark Construction

Although the completed Bensalem Jr. and Sr. high school will hold 1200 people, not more than 900 to 1,000 are expected to attend the $2,750,000 school when it opens for sessions for the 1954-1955 school term.

The school, to be located on Street road west of Hulmeville road, will have 47 different rooms to be used as classrooms.

The school is now located on a 30-acre site, but there is possibility of increasing it. Since the athletic fields are to be located to the rear of the building, Robert Shafer, superintendent of Bensalem Twp. School District, says, "They don't think they have quite enough land."

H. F. Everett Associates, Allentown, is the architect for the new building, and H. Bornstein & Sons is the contractor. The building will be of concrete block construction and faced with brick. It is being financed by bonds through the Bensalem Twp. Municipal Authority.

A two-section gym, which will seat 1500 when opened, an auditorium seating 750, a cafeteria seating 450, a library accommodating 120, 47 possible classrooms, a medical and dental suite and administrative offices comprise the Bensalem Jr. and Sr. high school.

The classrooms are within state limitations and will not feature anything that would "make headlines," says Shafer. Each room will, however, have a built-in closet; a built-in teachers unit, consisting of a closet, display case, magazine rack, and storage closet; a magnetic green chalk board; and one full wall will be of glass.

"So as to make it convenient for food to be served," the auditorium

Cornerstone Laying Set for Newtown

NEWTOWN, July 23 — The laying of the corner stone of the new Macedonia Baptist Church on North State street will be held July 26 at 3:30 p. m. Officers of Trilumium Lodge 89 F. & A. M., Bristol, and the Most Worship Prince Hall Lodge, F. & A. M., of the State of Penna., will officiate.

A worship service in the present church will precede laying of the corner stone, at three p. m. with the Rev. E. D. Fell, pastor of Second Baptist Church, Bristol, the principal speaker. His topic will be "We Are About a Great Work." The Rev. Mr. Fell will be introduced by the Rev. Edmund McGee, pastor of First Baptist Church, Pennlyn.

Special music will be presented by the male choir of the Bristol Church under direction of Mrs. Helen Harris, organist.

Introduction of the Grand Lodge officers will conclude the service.

Among the items to be placed in the corner stone will be a membership roll of the church, billhead of the builder, names of the sub-contractors, also a silver dollar.

The Rev. J. H. Reid, is pastor of the local church.

Middletown Zone Shift May Be Law August 3d

Triple School Sessions Seen Unless Fine Vetoes Measure

All township schools in Lower Bucks County will hold triple sessions two years from now unless Gov. John S. Fine vetoes a bill now on his desk, Regional Superintendent Medill Bair of Pennsbury School District, said this morning. The bill has been passed by the senate and house.

The bill Bair said, would stop the appropriation of state school-building funds, until the next biennial term of the State Legislature. Only $20,000,000 would be left for new schools until then.

"I feel that the state legislature has shown themselves to be very shortsighted about the school problems of Lower Bucks County," the superintendent said.

Bucks County School Superintendent Dr. Charles H. Boehm is in Harrisburg today discussing the measure. If the bill becomes law, only the $20,000,000 of an original $250,000,000 appropriation, will be available until 1955.

Pennsbury District, with other school districts in this area is engaged in a large-scale building program to accommodate the fast influx of people, according to Bair.

He said Pennsbury has rushed an application to the State Department of Public Instruction for a $2,500,000 junior high school for Levittown and Fairless Hills.

The Pennsbury district also is in urgent need of two $1,000,000 elementary schools, Bair said. Bair said the junior high application "is not going to do any good," as no action is expected from the Public Instruction Department before Saturday, when the Legislature will adjourn.

"The new school isn't likely to be built for two years," Bair said. He predicted that Gov. Fine will be forced to call an emergency session of the Legislature to allot more school-building funds.

Dr. Boehm said yesterday that several Lower Bucks County districts are rushing their applications to Harrisburg, before the new bill becomes law. He said applications are being made for schools in Levittown, Laurel Bend, Newportville Heights and Quakertown.

Already, 7,000 of the 16,000 students in this area are on double sessions because of a school shortage, Dr. Boehm said. He predicted 6,000 new students in the area next year.

Princeton Man Held for Jury In Yardley Slaying

FALLSINGTON, July 23—Charged with the murder of his estranged wife, last June 28, Joshua Goodwyn, 32, of Princeton, N. J., last night was held without bail for the Bucks county grand jury.

He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace John Melvin after being arrested at Mercer County Hospital, Trenton, N. J., Tuesday night by Chief Raymond S. Hoagland of the Yardley police department.

Goodwyn did not testify at the hearing.

Two police officers, Chief Hoagland and Chief County Detective Frank Kohler told the court that Goodwyn was visiting at the home of his brother-in-law, Robert Dean, at 193 S. Canal st., Yardley, when he entered the room where his wife, Gladys, was viewing television, and shot her with a .22 calibre rifle, then attempted suicide by shooting himself.

Morris Carter Dies; Lived Here 68 Years

A resident here 68 years, Morris E. Carter died suddenly last evening at the home of his son and daughter - in - law, Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Carter, 555 Swain street.

Mr. Carter, a retired employee of Penna. Railroad, had had a lengthy illness. He was husband of the late Mrs. Sarah Carter.

Two Unhurt In Crash Here

Cars driven by Charles J. Lichan, 1449 North 28th street, Philadelphia, and Santo Fiuman, 1842 Farragut avenue, Bristol, collided this morning at the intersection of Farragut avenue and Monroe street, Bristol, according to the borough police.

Lichan had been traveling west on Farragut avenue, when he started to make a left turn onto Monroe street. Police said Fiuman was going east on Farragut before the two cars collided.

The right doors on both cars were damaged, and also the fender on Fiuman's automobile. No one was injured in the accident which Patrolman Alonso VanZant investigated.

Bensalem Smog Petitions Still On

Despite the fact that complaints about the annoying smog in Cornwells Manor have stopped, Robert L. O'Neal, president of the Bensalem Township Taxpayers' Association, said yesterday he still will circulate a petition demanding the supervisors take immediate action.

Several volunteers, O'Neal said, are planning to help him acquire signatures for the petition which will probably be circulated some time this week-end.

70 Children Sign For Crafts Camp At Penn Center

A full registration of 70 children has been reported for the second period of the Crafts Camp which began at the William Penn Center, Fallsington, Tuesday, sponsored by the Friends Service Association.

Mrs. Bertie Wood, director of the camp, said the first two-week period was completed with great satisfaction on the part of the campers, the staff of leaders and herself.

Highlighting the first camping period were two trips taken by the children on July 10 and July 17. The first trip took them to Windward Beach, N. J., while Camp Onas, Rushland, Pa., was the destination of their second trip.

"They really had a good time, both were good places for such a group," said Mrs. Wood of the 55 children and 10 mothers who travelled to the outings.

The new group of children are scheduled to visit the Lost Cave at Hellertown, Pa., tomorrow, reported Mrs. Wood.

King's New Bill Would Rule Onions

Congressman Karl King (R. Pa.) today introduced a bill in the House of Representatives to amend the Commodity Exchange Act to put futures trading in onions under Commodity Exchange rules.

King said the fluctuations in the onion trading market of the last few years have caused many complaints from grower interests to the effect that unregulated speculation in this semi-perishable commodity has interfered with the normal stability of the market.

This bill should give the various interests of the onion industry a chance to record their arguments, either for or against regulation.

Bensalem Officials Confer Tonight

The Bensalem Township Authority and the Lower Southampton Township Supervisors will hold a joint meeting tonight according to C. Burnley White, authority member.

They plan to discuss the water and sewer situation in the upper section of Bensalem township, and the lower part of Southampton.

Daughter Named WCTU Head After Mother Retires

YARDLEY, July 23 — Declaring 25 years as president was "long enough", Mrs. Lucy A. Harper yesterday retired as head of the Yardley Women's Christian Temperance Union after a quarter-century of service. Her daughter, Mrs. Gladys A. Harper, was elected to succeed her by the members, who paid tribute to Mrs. Harper's outstanding service to the organization.

Other officers elected are: Mrs. Jacqueline Daugherty, vice president; Mrs. Edith Bilbee, secretary; Mrs. Ella Kennedy, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Susan Force, treasurer.

Attending the meeting were officers of the Bucks County WCTU and members of the Bristol group. Rev. Philip Palmer of the Yardley Methodist Church, conducted devotions. County officers who addressed the group were. Mrs. Anna Shaudys, president; Mrs. Clayton Zetty, vice president; Jane Rogers, recording secretary, and Mrs. Norman Kratz, director of child welfare. Mrs. Samuel Pearson, president of the Bristol WCTU, gave a brief address.

Reports were submitted by the directors of the following departments: Mrs. Helen Parsons, child welfare; Mrs. Jane Daugherty, institutes; Mrs. Force, legislation; Miss Harper, publicity and scrap book; Mrs. Anna White, temperance and missions; Mrs. Edith Allen, union signal; Ethel Girton, motion pictures; Mrs. Lillian Hampton, program chairman, and Mrs. Helen Parsons, white ribbon recruits.

Other reports were submitted by Mrs. Ida Wharton, religious education; Elizabeth Weeks, flower mission, and Mrs. Marjorie Blinn, soldiers and sailors.

Mrs. Anna White, Homestead drive, Yardley, will be hostess at the next meeting August 31.

Unopposed Bill Would Triple Industrial Area

Proposed zoning amendments would triple industrial space in Middletown twp., Charles P. Cella, supervisor of the University of Pennsylvania Government Consulting Service said last night at a hearing in the township building, Hulmeville road.

The new zoning plans, drawn up by the University organization with the Middletown supervisors, were described by Cella at a well-attended but orderly meeting.

Little opposition was shown, and leaders of two conflicting civic groups indicated their support of the zoning change. The supervisors are expected to adopt the ordinance at their next regular meeting, August 3, after a special session to discuss last night's testimony.

Opens Large Tract

The change opens for industrial use a large tract near the northeast corner of the township, doubles the width of commercial-zoned strips on both sides of Lincoln Highway, sets standards for shopping centers, large buildings, outdoor theaters and garden-type buildings, and requires "buffer zones" and parking space on lots.

The largest area that would be rezoned is a tract bounded by the Pennsylvania and Reading Railroad tracks, Langhorne - Yardley road and the east township boundary.

Residential and agricultural zones would be changed to light and heavy industrial. The Lincoln Highway commercial zones would be doubled to a 300-foot width.

Sub-Station Request

A request that electric sub-stations be permitted in residential zones was made by Henry S. Davis, manager of the Philadelphia Electric Co., Eastern Division. The stations would consist of a self-operated transformer units, enclosed and self-protected, Davis said, maintaining that in other townships "they haven't deteriorated property value."

"I guess there is no objection to having them included," said J. Russell Newbold, chairman of the township supervisors. "It was merely an oversight on our part."

Mrs. Gladys Jobson asked the supervisors why her 37-acre property at Janney was not rezoned to industrial as she had requested in a petition. The Neshaminy Joint

Bristol Lad Attends CAP Course at Base

Donald J. Biggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Biggs, Bristol, is one of five cadets from Bordentown Military Institute participating in the annual New Jersey CAP encampment at McGuire Air Force Base.

The encampment, according to First Lieutenant Morris W. Smith, commandant of the Institute's Air Squadron of the Civilian Air Patrol, started on July 18, and will continue until July 26.

Zone Shift

School Board and Lower Bucks County School Authority has opposed her petition, as a high school is being constructed nearby.

"Taxes for What?"

Referring to her frequent charges that blasting at the Karpinsky quarry is damaging her house, Mrs. Jobson asked why the supervisors had not acted. "I'm paying $330 a year in taxes for what?" she said.

Township solicitor Lawrence Monroe said that before taking action to control the quarry, "the supervisors would be required to prove that a substantial portion of the residents of the township were affected. My conclusion was that a sufficient segment of the population was not affected for the supervisors to go to court on it."

"Are you going to let the quarries continue?" Mrs. Jobson asked.

"Zoning cannot affect existing business or commercial use of land," Monroe replied.

The proposed zoning code amendments, Cella pointed out, require industries to be set back 200 feet from a zonal boundary touching residential or agricultural zoning.

Very Much in Favor

Thomas E. Morris, treasurer of the Middletown twp. Improvement Association, said his group "is very much in favor" of the proposed industrial and commercial changes. "They will balance the tax structure and prevent a further increase in taxes on homes," he said.

Morris added, however, that in the support the Middletown twp. Association for Better Government has given the proposed amendments, "we strongly suspect that the motive behind the Better Government Association is to get Levitt & Sons' tracts in the township broken down to a 6,000 square foot minimum, to allow construction of Ranchers."

Levitt at present is restricted to building Country Clubbers by the township's lot-size requirements of a 12,000-foot minimum, with parks.

"That is not true," retorted Frederick A .Holly, Sr., chairman of the Better Government group. "The principals of our organization are not headed in that direction. We have not made such a statement, other than that we are in agreement with the zoning ordinances that were passed."

Holly added, however, that his group has plans, "to absorb Levittown people into the organization "after Levitt builds in the township."

Truman in Storm

PITTSBURGH — Harry Truman was caught in Pittsburgh's biggest storm of the year last night and his plane hovered over the steel city for an hour and 15 minutes before being permitted to land. Asked if he was worried, the former president replied that he did not even know the plane had been delayed.

UN Worried

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — The faltering "up and down" Korean truce negotiations caused such concern today at the United Nations that General Assembly President Lester Pearson is returning to New York for consultations. There have been reports that the General Assembly will be called into immediate session to deal with the latest South Korean threats to block an armistice.

Capt. Peter Nixed

LONDON — An authoritative source close to Britain's royal family today labeled as "totally false" reports that Queen Elizabeth has given permission to Princess Margaret to marry RAF Capt. Peter Townsend. The same source declared rumors of a coming official announcement of Margaret's marriage to Townsend are "quite untrue."

Sees Fuel Dirth

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A top industrialist said today that the U. S. "will probably begin to experience a fuel shortage within the life span of people now living." Dr. E. G. Suits, vice president and director of research of the General Electric Co., said the answer to the problem is a vast multi-million dollar atomic research program conducted by private industry.

Asks Oat Quota

WASHINGTON — Sen. Milton Young (R.) S. D., asked President Eisenhower today to impose a 23 million bushel quota on imported Canadian oats. Young said U. S. grain surpluses make the proposed quota "very liberal".

Marriage Expected

WASHINGTON — Friends of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas expect today an early announcement will be made of his plans to marry Mrs. Mercedes H. Davidson, attractive blonde divorcee. The 54-year-old Douglas was divorced Tuesday by Mrs. Mildred Douglas who charged the jurist deserted her more than two years ago.

Polio Up 33 Percent

WASHINGTON—The U. S. Public Health Service reported a 33 per cent increase in acute polio cases last week, but said cases are running well behind the record highs of a year ago.

Wants Aid Back

WASHINGTON — The Administration today counted on the Senate to restore a House-voted one billion dollar cut in the foreign aid program. The House by-passed the President's wishes in passing the measure which provides some three billions less than the amount proposed by former President Truman.

Direct Your Small Daughter Along the Right Beauty Path

Cleanliness is the first rule of beauty that little girls should learn. Soap, after all, is a valuable cosmetic for young and old.

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF you are a mother of a small daughter, next time you're at a cosmetic counter, pause and consider the display of toiletries for little girls.

It's your duty to direct your daughter along the right beauty way. The care she receives may have much to do with her appearance later in life. Also, she will learn to be fastidious in her appearance, which means cleanliness of complexion, hair, hands, fingernails and body.

Neatness and Order

At the age of ten, a little girl should be able to look after her toilette. The child who doesn't care if her face is dirty, her hair tousled, who leaves her clothes lying on the floor, is likely to develop into an untidy woman and a slovenly wife. Neatness and order should be instilled in young minds, boys' as well as girls'.

Give the little girl a nail white pencil and she will think it's fun to pass it under her fingertips, watching the white lines form. Select soap that interests her and she won't balk at the daily bath. She should have a jar of cold cream to use in the summertime after exposure to strong sunlight and in the winter season when her skin is chapped. She will enjoy using a lotion to keep her hands soft.

A mother should be especially watchful when buying shoes for a child. During the growing years, there should be new shoes every six months or so. Footwear that is too small may cause ingrowing toenails that may prove extremely painful and stubborn.

Watch your child's posture. Baby doctors are keen on that subject. Erect carriage means better functioning of the internal organs.

See that the child gets nine hours' sleep every night, no matter how loudly she howls to stay up a little longer to watch television. Be strict and stern on that subject.

Paris Styles Dominate American Hats

By Nora W. Martin

PARIS, (INS)—Paris inspiration will blossom forth on American women's heads this fall, according to Sally Victor, the trend-setting New York milliner who believes that "a woman without a hat is like a painting without a frame."

Mrs. Victor, who does hats for Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, visited Paris to gather inspiration for new chapeaux.

"The most important hat news I'll take back from Paris," said the milliner, "is the growing importance of dinner hats. No smart Parisienne would feel dressed up for dinner without a chapeau. And I forecast a similar trend for American women come Fall.

"Usually tiny, simple in cut but of precious material, it's the dinner hat that gives the Paris touch to all the fashionable women I saw at elegant and expensive places."

Mrs. Victor added:

"Men too are hat conscious. A man wants to be envied for the smartness and chic of his girlfriend. He doesn't want her to look like just any other girl. And it's the hat that makes the difference."

If in doubt what color to choose for a dressy hat, take white, advises Sally Victor.

"White hats are very becoming, fresh, dressy and always right," she said. "Do like the Parisienne; wear a simple little shape — coil, pillbox or a small beret — to which you add a personal detail such as a jewel clip, a flower or a special veil.

"Always choose a hat in front of a full length mirror," she continued, "because in buying a hat a woman must consider the over-all picture and see what the hat does for her."

Speaking about Mamie Eisenhower's hats, the milliner said:

"She likes small hats and looks best in them. Hats for her must fit like skull-caps and not be perched up high. But in general a hair-do with bangs does not necessarily call for a unique hat-style."

Average Worker Earned $70.69 During June

Pennsylvania's average worker earned $70.69 for a 39.9 hour week in June, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia's Department of Research.

Weekly wage payments for approximately 1,200,000 production workers totaled more than $84,500,000. In June the work week was slighly lower at 39.9, there was a $.01 to $1.77 increase in hourly earnings, and weekly earnings averaged $70.69.

In Philadelphia there were 33,700 more people employed this year than last, and the workers received an average of $4.36 more per week than in June 1952.

No over-all change in employment was seen in the durable goods industry, but wages and working time declined one per cent.

Although nondurables reported no change in total working time, there was a one per cent gain in employment and wages.

A small reduction during June in the number of workers in Delaware factories was evidenced by a reported 62,300 employees, but compared to a year ago, there were about 3800 more people employed.

Zone Shift

School Board and Lower Bucks County School Authority has opposed her petition, as a high school is being constructed nearby.

"Taxes for What?"

Referring to her frequent charges that blasting at the Karpinsky quarry is damaging her house, Mrs. Jobson asked why the supervisors had not acted. "I'm paying $330 a year in taxes for what?" she said.

Township solicitor Lawrence Monroe said that before taking action to control the quarry, "the supervisors would be required to prove that a substantial portion of the residents of the township were affected. My conclusion was that a sufficient segment of the population was not affected for the supervisors to go to court on it."

"Are you going to let the quarries continue?" Mrs. Jobson asked.

"Zoning cannot affect existing business or commercial use of land," Monroe replied.

The proposed zoning code amendments, Celia pointed out, require industries to be set back 200 feet from a zonal boundary touching residential or agricultural zoning.

Very Much in Favor

Thomas E. Morris, treasurer of the Middletown twp. Improvement Association, said his group "is very much in favor" of the proposed industrial and commercial changes. "They will balance the tax structure and prevent a further increase in taxes on homes," he said.

Morris added, however, that in the support the Middletown twp. Association for Better Government has given the proposed amendments, "we strongly suspect that the motive behind the Better Government Association is to get Levitt & Sons' tracts in the township broken down to a 6,000 square foot minimum, to allow construction of Ranchers."

Levitt at present is restricted to building Country Clubbers by the township's lot-size requirements of a 12,000-foot minimum, with parks.

"That is not true," retorted Frederick A .Holly, Sr., chairman of the Better Government group. "The principals of our organization are not headed in that direction. We have not made such a statement, other than that we are in agreement with the zoning ordinances that were passed."

Holly added, however, that his group has plans, "to absorb Levittown people into the organization "after Levitt builds in the township."

Truman in Storm

PITTSBURGH — Harry Truman was caught in Pittsburgh's biggest storm of the year last night and his plane hovered over the steel city for an hour and 15 minutes before being permitted to land. Asked if he was worried, the former president replied that he did not even know the plane had been delayed.

UN Worried

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — The faltering "up and down" Korean truce negotiations caused such concern today at the United Nations that General Assembly President Lester Pearson is returning to New York for consultations. There have been reports that the General Assembly will be called into immediate session to deal with the latest South Korean threats to block an armistice.

Capt. Peter Nixed

LONDON — An authoritative source close to Britain's royal family today labeled as "totally false" reports that Queen Elizabeth has given permission to Princess Margaret to marry RAF Capt. Peter Townsend. The same source declared rumors of a coming official announcement of Margaret's marriage to Townsend are "quite untrue."

Sees Fuel Dirth

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A top industrialist said today that the U. S. "will probably begin to experience a fuel shortage within the life span of people now living." Dr. E. G. Suits, vice president and director of research of the General Electric Co., said the answer to the problem is a vast multi-million dollar atomic research program conducted by private industry.

Asks Oat Quota

WASHINGTON — Sen. Milton Young (R.) S. D., asked President Eisenhower today to impose a 23 million bushel quota on imported Canadian oats. Young said U. S. grain surpluses make the proposed quota "very liberal".

Marriage Expected

WASHINGTON — Friends of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas expect today an early announcement will be made of his plans to marry Mrs. Mercedes H. Davidson, attractive blonde divorcee. The 54-year-old Douglas was divorced Tuesday by Mrs. Mildred Douglas who charged the jurist deserted her more than two years ago.

Polio Up 33 Percent

WASHINGTON—The U. S. Public Health Service reported a 33 per cent increase in acute polio cases last week, but said cases are running well behind the record highs of a year ago.

Wants Aid Back

WASHINGTON — The Administration today counted on the Senate to restore a House-voted one billion dollar cut in the foreign aid program. The House by-passed the President's wishes in passing the measure which provides some three billions less than the amount proposed by former President Truman.

Cleanliness is the first rule of beauty that little girls should learn. Soap, after all, is a valuable cosmetic for young and old.

By HELEN FOLLETT

IF you are a mother of a small daughter, next time you're at a cosmetic counter, pause and consider the display of toiletries for little girls.

It's your duty to direct your daughter along the right beauty way. The care she receives may have much to do with her appearance later in life. Also, she will learn to be fastidious in her appearance, which means cleanliness of complexion, hair, hands, fingernails and body.

Neatness and Order

At the age of ten, a little girl should be able to look after her toilette. The child who doesn't care if her face is dirty, her hair tousled, who leaves her clothes lying on the floor, is likely to develop into an untidy woman and a slovenly wife. Neatness and order should be instilled in young minds, boys' as well as girls'.

Give the little girl a nail white pencil and she will think it's fun to pass it under her fingertips, watching the white lines form. Select soap that interests her and she won't balk at the daily bath. She should have a jar of cold cream to use in the summertime after exposure to strong sunlight and in the winter season when her skin is chapped. She will enjoy using a lotion to keep her hands soft.

A mother should be especially watchful when buying shoes for a child. During the growing years, there should be new shoes every six months or so. Footwear that is too small may cause ingrowing toenails that may prove extremely painful and stubborn.

Watch your child's posture. Baby doctors are keen on that subject. Erect carriage means better functioning of the internal organs.

See that the child gets nine hours' sleep every night, no matter how loudly she howls to stay up a little longer to watch television. Be strict and stern on that subject.

Rosetta Couzens Hauss, of Detroit, reluctantly invested $100 in a newly formed automobile business in 1903. By 1919 she had collected $95,000 in dividends, and that year she sold her $100 share for $260,000, says Joe McCarthy in the August Reader's Digest. Rosetta's brother, James Couzens, less reluctant, put in $2400 in 1933, added to his holdings later, cashed in for $30,000,000 in 1919. In the purchase of male hair preparations, teen-age influence affected 47 percent of family purchases. However, teen-age influence ran only five percent on toilet soap buying.

Rosetta Couzens Hauss, of Detroit, reluctantly invested $100 in a newly formed automobile business in 1903. By 1919 she had collected $95,000 in dividends, and that year she sold her $100 share for $260,000, says Joe McCarthy in the August Reader's Digest. Rosetta's brother, James Couzens, less reluctant, put in $2400 in 1933, added to his holdings later, cashed in for $30,000,000 in 1919. This "greatest get-rich-quick scheme ever heard of" was the Ford Motor Co.

RUSSIA LURES JAPAN

In spite of all U. S. efforts in behalf of Japan, that nation is still regarded by many observers as vulnerable to Russian intrigue.

When the Japanese treaty was written in 1951 Soviet representatives attended the conference in San Francisco, objected to the terms and refused to become a party to the agreement.

At this late date Moscow will offer Japan a treaty of its own making as a part of its current "peace" offensive in the Far East.

Russia is approaching Japan from its economic side. It is known that Japan has much to sell, with few potenital buyers. Trade relations with Russia, and indirectly with Red China, would be advantageous, at least temporarily. Russia is making great promises, as usual.

Moscow offers badly needed coal at an attractive price. It offers to buy supplies for ship repairs, and to use Japanese yards for that purpose. Fishing regulations would be eased in behalf of Jap boats.

Many Japanese greet these overtures with enthusiasm, oblivious to the fact that once given a foothold in Japan the Russians will not be satisfied until they have full control.

Air-Conditioning For Humans is Next Step!

By Inez Robb
(Distributed by International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 23 — (INS) — Air - conditioned trains, planes, buses, hotels, restaurants, theatres, homes, automobiles: these we have already yet. But what about air-conditioned people? What about a man-sized unit to simmer people down while July boils and bubbles?

Well, sir, Herbert L. Laube is the man who says it not only can be done but has bene done.

If you and I are willing to wear a space cadet outfit, complete with plastic gold-fish bowl over the noggin and wish to get in touch with the proper authorities—

But to begin at the beginning: Mr. Laube, president of Remington Corporation, refrigeration engineer and pioneer in air-conditioning, worked on the problem during the second world war.

"The problem was to air-condition tanks then in use in Africa," said Mr. Laube, a pleasant gentleman with prematurely white hair and collegite horn-rims in front of blue eyes.

"Soldiers were not only collapsing but actually going crazy from the inescapable heat generated by tanks in the tropics. The government asked us to work on the problem. After a few rides in tanks under these conditions, I knew it would be impossible to air-condition the tank itself, a thick steel shell that attracted and held exterior as well as interior heat.

"The long and short of it is that we finally perfected an individual suit for tank crews, a suit combining the best features of Winston Churchill's 'siren suit' and a fish bowl head-dress of plastic.

"A flexible hose or tube attached to the suit at the rear waistline was plugged into the central cooling equipment in the tank. This inflated the siren suit by circulating dry, cool air around the man, who was then as comfortable as a cucumber."

The suit worked just dandy, said Mr. Laube. But tank warfare in Africa was over by the time the suit was perfected. So it never did go into production, although there may be a few samples stored away some place.

"Our engineers had other ideas at the time about air-conditioning the individual," Mr. Laube continued. "With so many men involved in desert and tropic warfare at that time, engineers began working on a small, individual unit which would be powered or driven by the energy created by man when and as he walks.

"There was some experimentation with putting this unit in the soles of a man's shoes. Of course, it would have required a specially designed suit, too, but probably nothing to confuse a man with a space cadet. However, when the war ended, the project lapsed, as far as I know. Refrigeration engineers have had all they could do air-conditioning buildings."

Mr. Laube, who air-conditioned his first building in 1925, a year after he was graduated from Iowa State University, has specialized in air-conditioning in the tropics as well as at home. His jobs have included air-conditioning harems in India, a racing stable in Colombo, Ceylon, a dairy barn in Singapore and offices and homes in every torrid land where American companies are involved in oil production.

The blessings of air-conditioning are not always appreciated at once by local residents, Mr. Laube reported. After he air-conditioned an office building in Venezuela for an American firm, Venezuela employes went on strike. They wanted none of it, on the theory it was unhealthful and would lead to colds, flu or worse.

Gradually, by coaxing and bribes, the American firm persuaded the Venezuelans to give it a trial.

Now the U. S. company has a new and as yet unsolved problem: How to get the employees out of the building when the whistles blow at 5 p. m.

At that hour, employees get out cards, choose partners and settle in for the duration.

Your Birthday by STELLA II

THURSDAY, JULY 23—Born today, you are very much a person of temperament—and temper, if the real truth were to be told. Your emotions are very near the top and your boiling point is exceptionally low! You have intelligence, energy and enthusiasm. Just learn how to direct it properly and you can have exactly what you want out of life. Your self-confidence and self-reliance are outstanding and nobody is going to lead you around by the nose! In fact, a little more capacity for cooperative action might be an excellent thing.

You have a dogged determination and once you have decided that you want something, you head straight for it. You are somewhat inclined to take the attitude "any means toward an end." Since you are fair and just, this is not too likely to mean that you will take advantage of others. But just watch out that it never does! You are imaginative and have a gift for the written word, prose or poetry, but such a career should be started early if you are to make it your life work. Although you have a deply spiritual nature, you are not necessarily a conformist.

You have a magnetic personality and can usually persuade others to come over to your side of the argument. Hold your ideals high and you can go far. Since you enjoy activity and change, you must learn not to spread your energies over too wide a field lest they lose in effectiveness. Always exert the full power of your will.

To find what the stars have in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, July 24

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Build up prestige and popularity among your acquaintances by some particularly kind act today.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Give all important decisions a very careful second thought before you act on anything at all.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—A little diplomatic persuasion can be much more effective today than pushing a violent argument.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Get an early start this morning and polish off a number of routine tasks which need doing at once.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—If you try to make a change today, the chances are you will make a serious mistake. Stay where you are!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Accept an invitation to spend the week-end in the country with a friend, if you are invited.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Broaden your outlook right now. New acquaintances may turn into friends which will last the rest of your life.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)—Get an early start of "must" jobs which have to be cleared away before you can begin a carefree week-end.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20)—Think carefully over any problbem which presents itself. Don't act hastily, no matter how you are being pushed.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—If you need help and advice in a problem, don't be too proud to ask for the proper kind of advice!

GEMINI (May 22—June 21)—Plan your vacation today. If it isn't time for your long one, plan to take a long week-end in the country.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Now is the time to wind up important tasks and get them done before making plans for your week-end.

House Approves Child Care Bill; Slated for Senate

HARRISBURG, July 23 — The child adoption measure was approved by the House of Representatives last night by a vote of 183 to 23 and now goes back to the Senate for concurrence on amendments.

Initial Catholic opposition to the bill was lifted following its revision which provides for specific requirements that children up for adoption be assigned to an institution or a home of their own faith. In doubtful cases, the juvenile court would be given the right to make the assignment.

Companion child care legislation remained stalled in the House last night after state-wide protests from Catholics against the plan of the Governor's committee to enable county commissioners to expand child care activities.

Amendments to the bill are being arranged by the committee in an effort to satisfy Catholic protests of too much state interference in family matters. Rep. Nolan F. Ziegler (R-Dauphin) who acted as liasion man between Catholic officials and the House, said the child care bill was dead.

A companion bill granting $1,500,000 in State funds to finance the county program was pigeonholed in the House Appropriations Committee. Without this fund, passage of the child care measure would be meaningless, legislators pointed out.

Prizes were given for letter openers, which were made during the past month as a den project. Fathers and cubs made the openers. Winners were Albert Hochwald and George Logue, den 4. Den No. 1, Mrs. Raymond Marshall den mother, received achievement banner award for the past month.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, July 22 — Can public schools be privately financed?

The Ford foundation thought it could persuade the Los Angeles school board that private funds should be used to finance a five-year teacher training and recruitment program. It offered the superintendent of schools $335,000 for the project.

Lewis

To the everlasting credit of the Los Angeles Board of Education, the Ford Foundation was handed back its cash and told to take a walk.

So far as I can determine this is the first time a public school anywhere in the nation was asked to accept private funds for the payment of training schoolteachers. Under the Ford Foundation plan Los Angeles public schools would have received 90 teachers per year for a five-year period, who would have been trained along the lines advocated by the people running the foundation. Some of them hold peculiar views regarding education.

The Ford Foundation considered the grant an experiment. It was certainly that, all right. Public education in the past has always been public business, conducted at the expense of us taxpayers. The system has worked well. We have the best public school system in the world, bar none, although there is a teacher shortage which can be alleviated by salary increases, a fact most boards of education recognize and are working to correct.

Apparently the Ford Foundation expected to expand its public school teacher training plan. A national advisory committee was to be selected, and may still be, on a $50 a day consultant basis, and a program director was to be hired at $12,000 annually. When the Ford Foundation officials started reaching out for a Los Angeles director the result was a fine set of burned fingers.

Will Crawford, superintendent of schools in San Diego, California, was the choice. He is well known for his insistence on injecting United nations Educational, Social and Economic policies into public schools.

UNESCO's nutty program for teaching our young was booted out of the Los Angeles public schools following a bitter and lengthy public fight.

UNESCO's big pitch is to cram world-mindedness down the throats of our public school students, as part of the grand design for world government. Here is a sample of UNESCO propaganda for our kiddies:

"As long as the child breathes the poisoned air of nationalism, education in world-mindedness can produce only rather precarious results. As we have pointed out, it is frequently the family that infects the child with extreme nationalism."

Nationalism, extreme or otherwise, is patriotism, love of country and devotion to its principles. Maybe if a few of our domestic communists had been so infected we would have had less spying for Soviet Russia and fewer consequent executions for treason.

The Ford Foundation has something called the fund for the Advancement of Education. At the end of 1952 it had spent $11,336,458. Thirty institutions of higher education in the U. S. received a total of $9,073,275 from the fund for a variety of experimental programs, including a half million dollars for something called "support for three years of studies concerned with Clarification of Western Thought and Educational Philosophy."

A total of 291 additional colleges, including one or more in each state of the union, have been awarded grants from the Ford Foundation, in amounts ranging from $2,000 to $25,000 for "faculty study fellowship programs."

Nobody can quarrel with the fact that colleges and universities depend on private funds for their support. There never has been a private fund as vast as that of the Ford Foundation, nor one which spread into so many schools. If there is a philosophy behind the Ford Foundation and those who run it the impact of that philosophy will be felt by every individual and institution it touches.

In Los Angeles two women members of the Board of Education, Mrs. Edith K. Stafford and Mrs. Ruth Cole, led the objection to the Ford Foundation grant to Los Angeles public schools. The reason they did so was because they are convinced that UNESCO's code of learning has no place in their public school system. They swept UNESCO out the front door once and see no reason why it should be admitted through the back door, just because the Ford Foundation has a pile of spare cash handy.

Perhaps the foundation could be talked into a grant to study the effects of the Ford Foundation on Education in the U. S. Many millions are being spent for somethang. What is it?

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Surely the Lord is in this place; and I knew it not.—Ge. 28-16.

Some have found him in workshops, in kitchens, in hospitals, in gardens, by the seaside, lift the stone and thou shalt find me, cleave the wood and there am I. But by appointment he may be found in church.

RUSSIA LURES JAPAN

In spite of all U. S. efforts in behalf of Japan, that nation is still regarded by many observers as vulnerable to Russian intrigue.

When the Japanese treaty was written in 1951 Soviet representatives attended the conference in San Francisco, objected to the terms and refused to become a party to the agreement.

At this late date Moscow will offer Japan a treaty of its own making as a part of its current "peace" offensive in the Far East.

Russia is approaching Japan from its economic side. It is known that Japan has much to sell, with few potenital buyers. Trade relations with Russia, and indirectly with Red China, would be advantageous, at least temporarily. Russia is making great promises, as usual.

Moscow offers badly needed coal at an attractive price. It offers to buy supplies for ship repairs, and to use Japanese yards for that purpose. Fishing regulations would be eased in behalf of Jap boats.

Many Japanese greet these overtures with enthusiasm, oblivious to the fact that once given a foothold in Japan the Russians will not be satisfied until they have full control.

Air-Conditioning For Humans is Next Step!

By Inez Robb
(Distributed by International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 23 — (INS) — Air - conditioned trains, planes, buses, hotels, restaurants, theatres, homes, automobiles: these we have already yet. But what about air-conditioned people? What about a man-sized unit to simmer people down while July boils and bubbles?

Well, sir, Herbert L. Laube is the man who says it not only can be done but has bene done.

If you and I are willing to wear a space cadet outfit, complete with plastic gold-fish bowl over the noggin and wish to get in touch with the proper authorities—

But to begin at the beginning: Mr. Laube, president of Remington Corporation, refrigeration engineer and pioneer in air-conditioning, worked on the problem during the second world war.

"The problem was to air-condition tanks then in use in Africa," said Mr. Laube, a pleasant gentleman with prematurely white hair and collegite horn-rims in front of blue eyes.

"Soldiers were not only collapsing but actually going crazy from the inescapable heat generated by tanks in the tropics. The government asked us to work on the problem. After a few rides in tanks under these conditions, I knew it would be impossible to air-condition the tank itself, a thick steel shell that attracted and held exterior as well as interior heat.

"The long and short of it is that we finally perfected an individual suit for tank crews, a suit combining the best features of Winston Churchill's 'siren suit' and a fish bowl head-dress of plastic.

"A flexible hose or tube attached to the suit at the rear waistline was plugged into the central cooling equipment in the tank. This inflated the siren suit by circulating dry, cool air around the man, who was then as comfortable as a cucumber."

The suit worked just dandy, said Mr. Laube. But tank warfare in Africa was over by the time the suit was perfected. So it never did go into production, although there may be a few samples stored away some place.

"Our engineers had other ideas at the time about air-conditioning the individual," Mr. Laube continued. "With so many men involved in desert and tropic warfare at that time, engineers began working on a small, individual unit which would be powered or driven by the energy created by man when and as he walks.

"There was some experimentation with putting this unit in the soles of a man's shoes. Of course, it would have required a specially designed suit, too, but probably nothing to confuse a man with a space cadet. However, when the war ended, the project lapsed, as far as I know. Refrigeration engineers have had all they could do air-conditioning buildings."

Mr. Laube, who air-conditioned his first building in 1925, a year after he was graduated from Iowa State University, has specialized in air-conditioning in the tropics as well as at home. His jobs have included air-conditioning harems in India, a racing stable in Colombo, Ceylon, a dairy barn in Singapore and offices and homes in every torrid land where American companies are involved in oil production.

The blessings of air-conditioning are not always appreciated at once by local residents, Mr. Laube reported. After he air-conditioned an office building in Venezuela for an American firm, Venezuela employes went on strike. They wanted none of it, on the theory it was unhealthful and would lead to colds, flu or worse.

Gradually, by coaxing and bribes, the American firm persuaded the Venezuelans to give it a trial.

Now the U. S. company has a new and as yet unsolved problem: How to get the employees out of the building when the whistles blow at 5 p. m.

At that hour, employees get out cards, choose partners and settle in for the duration.

Your Birthday by STELLA II

THURSDAY, JULY 23—Born today, you are very much a person of temperament—and temper, if the real truth were to be told. Your emotions are very near the top and your boiling point is exceptionally low! You have intelligence, energy and enthusiasm. Just learn how to direct it properly and you can have exactly what you want out of life. Your self-confidence and self-reliance are outstanding and nobody is going to lead you around by the nose! In fact, a little more capacity for cooperative action might be an excellent thing.

You have a dogged determination and once you have decided that you want something, you head straight for it. You are somewhat inclined to take the attitude "any means toward an end." Since you are fair and just, this is not too likely to mean that you will take advantage of others. But just watch out that it never does! You are imaginative and have a gift for the written word, prose or poetry, but such a career should be started early if you are to make it your life work. Although you have a deply spiritual nature, you are not necessarily a conformist.

You have a magnetic personality and can usually persuade others to come over to your side of the argument. Hold your ideals high and you can go far. Since you enjoy activity and change, you must learn not to spread your energies over too wide a field lest they lose in effectiveness. Always exert the full power of your will.

To find what the stars have in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday star and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, July 24

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Build up prestige and popularity among your acquaintances by some particularly kind act today.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Give all important decisions a very careful second thought before you act on anything at all.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Get an early start this morning and polish off a number of routine tasks which need doing at once.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—If you try to make a change today, the chances are you will make a serious mistake. Stay where you are!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Accept an invitation to spend the week-end in the country with a friend, if you are invited.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—Broaden your outlook right now. New acquaintances may turn into friends which will last the rest of your life.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20)—Get an early start of "must" jobs which have to be cleared away before you can begin a carefree week-end.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 20)—Think carefuly over any problbem which presents itself. Don't act hastily, no matter how you are being pushed.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)—If you need help and advice in a problem, don't be too proud to ask for the proper kind of advice!

GEMINI (May 22—June 21)—Plan your vacation today. If it isn't time for your long one, plan to take a long week-end in the country.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Now is the time to wind up important tasks and get them done before making plans for your week-end.

House Approves Child Care Bill; Slated for Senate

HARRISBURG, July 23 — The child adoption measure was approved by the House of Representatives last night by a vote of 183 to 23 and now goes back to the Senate for concurrence on amendments.

Initial Catholic opposition to the bill was lifted following its revision which provides for specific requirements that children up for adoption be assigned to an institution or a home of their own faith. In doubtful cases, the juvenile court would be given the right to make the assignment.

Companion child care legislation remained stalled in the House last night after state-wide protests from Catholics against the plan of the Governor's committee to enable county commissioners to expand child care activities.

Amendments to the bill are being arranged by the committee in an effort to satisfy Catholic protests of too much state interference in family matters. Rep. Nolan F. Ziegler (R-Dauphin) who acted as liasion man between Catholic officials and the House, said the child care bill was dead.

A companion bill granting $1,500,000 in State funds to finance the county program was pigeonholed in the House Appropriations Committee. Without this fund, passage of the child care measure would be meaningless, legislators pointed out.

Prizes were given for letter openers, which were made during the past month as a den project. Fathers and cubs made the openers. Winners were Albert Hochwald and George Logue, den 4. Den No. 1, Mrs. Raymond Marshall den mother, received achievement banner award for the past month.

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

by Fulton Lewis, Jr.
(Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, July 23 — Can public schools be privately financed?

The Ford foundation thought it could persuade the Los Angeles school board that private funds should be used to finance a five-year teacher training and recruitment program. It offered the superintendent of schools $335,000 for the project.

Lewis

To the everlasting credit of the Los Angeles Board of Education, the Ford Foundation was handed back its cash and told to take a walk.

So far as I can determine this is the first time a public school anywhere in the nation was asked to accept private funds for the payment of training schoolteachers. Under the Ford Foundation plan Los Angeles public schools would have received 90 teachers per year for a five-year period, who would have been trained along the lines advocated by the people running the foundation. Some of them hold peculiar views regarding education.

The Ford Foundation considered the grant an experiment. It was certainly that, all right. Public education in the past has always been public business, conducted at the expense of us taxpayers. The system has worked well. We have the best public school system in the world, bar none, although there is a teacher shortage which can be alleviated by salary increases, a fact most boards of education recognize and are working to correct.

Apparently the Ford Foundation expected to expand its public school teacher training plan. A national advisory committee was to be selected, and may still be, on a $50 a day consultant basis, and a program director was to be hired at $12,000 annually. When the Ford Foundation officials started reaching out for a Los Angeles director the result was a fine set of burned fingers.

Will Crawford, superintendent of schools in San Diego, California, was the choice. He is well known for his insistence on injecting United nations Educational, Social and Economic policies into public schools.

UNESCO's nutty program for teaching our young was booted out of the Los Angeles public schools following a bitter and lengthy public fight.

UNESCO's big pitch is to cram world-mindedness down the throats of our public school students, as part of the grand design for world government. Here is a sample of UNESCO propaganda for our kiddies:

"As long as the child breathes the poisoned air of nationalism, education in world-mindedness can produce only rather precarious results. As we have pointed out, it is frequently the family that infects the child with extreme nationalism."

Nationalism, extreme or otherwise, is patriotism, love of country and devotion to its principles. Maybe if a few of our domestic communists had been so infected we would have had less spying for Soviet Russia and fewer consequent executions for treason.

The Ford Foundation has something called the fund for the Advancement of Education. At the end of 1952 it had spent $11,336,458. Thirty institutions of higher education in the U. S. received a total of $9,073,275 from the fund for a variety of experimental programs, including a half million dollars for something called "support for three years of studies concerned with Clarification of Western Thought and Educational Philosophy."

A total of 291 additional colleges, including one or more in each state of the union, have been awarded grants from the Ford Foundation, in amounts ranging from $2,000 to $25,000 for "faculty study fellowship programs."

Nobody can quarrel with the fact that colleges and universities depend on private funds for their support. There never has been a private fund as vast as that of the Ford Foundation, nor one which spread into so many schools. If there is a philosophy behind the Ford Foundation and those who run it the impact of that philosophy will be felt by every individual and institution it touches.

In Los Angeles two women members of the Board of Education, Mrs. Edith K. Stafford and Mrs. Ruth Cole, led the objection to the Ford Foundation grant to Los Angeles public schools. The reason they did so was because they are convinced that UNESCO's code of learning has no place in their public school system. They swept UNESCO out the front door once and see no reason why it should be admitted through the back door, just because the Ford Foundation has a pile of spare cash handy.

Perhaps the foundation could be talked into a grant to study the effects of the Ford Foundation on Education in the U. S. Many millions are being spent for somethang. What is it?

A Fine Job for a Teenage Girl

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

A RESPONSIBLE girl over the age of thirteen may be in great demand for baby sitting.

Under proper conditions, baby sitting can be valuable experience for her. It can give her a sense of worthwhileness, afford her good practice at bearing responsibility and enable her to earn some money. Besides, it's good preparation for her probable parenthood by and by.

Upbringing Counts

Almost any type of good home upbringing of a girl from her early years should help prepare her for becoming a good baby sitter, as training in self-reliance and responsibility. Certainly the girl who likes young children—the more so, as a rule, if she lives happily with younger brothers and sisters—who has learned to share in her home responsibilities and is very dependable, has resources within herself for becoming a good baby sitter.

You and I know the adolescent girl who takes baby sitting seriously and evinces great pride in her successes and in the demand for her services. Young parents feel comfortable in trusting their children to her care. Some young parents write me of such girls. And as I go about I also hear enthusiasm expressed over these fine helpers.

A Good Example

While on a lecture trip recently, I heard a young mother exulting over her baby sitter. I asked this mother to write me about this girl and allow me to quote from her letter. Here is what she wrote:

"Nancy is sixteen, a sophomore in high school. She lives in our neighborhood with her parents and two younger brothers. I think everyone in this area has called Nancy at some time to ask her to baby-sit, but she's hard to get on weekends because she is so capable.

"Nancy dates but she doesn't cancel a baby-sitting commitment for something perhaps more interesting. When a parent gives instruction to her, she pays attention and then does as you ask.

"But what is more important, she loves the children and they all look forward to Nancy's coming—in fact, many are glad to see their parents go! We don't have to tell Nancy to read or play with them, she does it spontaneously.

Makes a Report

"She calls the parents by their correct names, and also the children, not referring to them as 'the kids.' She reports before she leaves, and you're sure your children have been happy. Something we think is very important, her parents know and care where she is, and if an emergency arose and we were at a distance, I know her mother would help her until we arrived.

"Early this year, she decided she'd like to try working and took a job at a drug store. She didn't let all her employers call and then find out she was no longer available, she came to each of us and let us know.' The letter concludes: "If we could only find more girls like this who want to do an important job and do it well!"

A Special Archery License is required during Bow and Arrow Season, issued only by the Dept. of Revenue, Harrisburg, at a fee of $2.00. Antlerless Deer Licenses are issued only by County Treasurers, at a fee of $1.15, and valid only in the County for which issued. Farm occupants permitted by law to hunt without a license may also hunt for antlerless deer during the antlerless season on the same land as for other game. See Digest issued with hunting license for details. Under the law, no application for an Antlerless Deer License shall be approved, or license issued, to a Nonresident prior to November 14, or after December 13, 1953.

The quota available for Bucks County is 375 licenses.

BEAVERS—No trapping at Commission-posted dams. Nonresidents may not trap beavers. One person may set, tend or operate 10 traps only. Traps must not be set on the structure of any beaver dam or house, or within 25 feet of the waterline on the structure of either thereof. Tags must be kept above ice or waterline to facilitate identification without disturbing traps. Pelts must be tagged within 10 days after season, and may not be sold or otherwise disposed of until properly tagged. Present them to the Game Protector in District or County where trapped.

TRAPPING—Traps for furbearers not to be placed, staked or set before 7:00 A. M. on the first day of the open seasons. The season indicated for Trapping closes at 12:00 o'clock Noon on last day. Traps must be tagged with metal name tags.

SNARES—The use of snares is prohibited in all counties except by special permit.

SHOOTING HOURS FOR WATERFOWL AND OTHER MIGRATORY GAME BIRDS—Federal regulations apply except that on October 31, 1953 there shall be no shooting before 9 a. m.

I hereby certify the foregoing is a summary of the rules and regulations to be the act of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, notice of which is published in accordance with the provisions of the Act cited. THOS. D. FRYE, Executive Director

CD 'Matching Fund' Aids 53 Counties

The Federal Civil Defense Administration's "matching fund program" was put to use by political subdivisions in 53 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties, according to State Civil Defense Director Richard Gerstall.

Bucks county, along with 52 others, applied for emergency equipment and supplies totaling $3,574,586 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953.

The subdivisions had to pledge $1,687,293 in local funds, which will now be matched by an equal sum provided by the Federal Government. Allegheny ranks first, and Philadelphia county second, on the list of total value of items scheduled for purchase, reported Dr. Gerstall.

CD 'Matching Fund' Aids 53 Counties

The Federal Civil Defense Administration's "matching fund program" was put to use by political subdivisions in 53 of Pennsylvania's 67 counties, according to State Civil Defense Director Richard Gerstall.

Bucks county, along with 52 others, applied for emergency equipment and supplies totaling $3,574,586 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953.

The subdivisions had to pledge $1,687,293 in local funds, which will now be matched by an equal sum provided by the Federal Government. Allegheny ranks first, and Philadelphia county second, on the list of total value of items scheduled for purchase, reported Dr. Gerstall.

Fifth Ward Club Tops Kaiser, 10-8, On Memorial Field

Fifth Ward Sporting Club won a free-hitting Bristol Softball League game from Kaiser Metal Products last evening on Memorial field. Final tabulations were 10-8.

Kaiser Metal outhit the winners 13-11, and had two long distance homers to its credit. Every player in the Kaiser lineup had at least one hit.

But main downfall of the aircraft workers was poor fielding. The losers committed seven errors to help the Warders push runs across the plate.

Kaiser had a 6-5 lead at the end of the seventh, taking the edge when Frank Solarski clouted a home run to center with Marty Braam on base.

However, the lead was short-lived as Fifth Ward came back to tally 4 times in the seventh. After S. Cordisco struck out, Danny Pieo doubled to center. Joe Embiscuso lined out a triple to right, scoring Pieo. Mike DeLisa flied to right but Ernie Pinelli dropped the ball, Embiscuso scoring. Joe Stallone got on via Solarski's error.

Stan Koreyva beat out a hit past short to load the bags. Joe Pica hit to DiMuccie who threw to the plate but Umpire DiNunzio declared DeLisa safe. John Cordisco flied out, the runners holding their bags. Vince DiTanna singled sharply to center, Stallone going home. Up for the second time, S. Cordisco lifted a fly to short.

Officials of the Bristol Little League have named the All-Star team which will represent Bristol in the Little League tournament which opens Monday evening.

The Bristol team will meet Pennsbury's Little League All-Stars on Rohm & Haas field, starting at 6 o'clock.

Ted Adams will manage the Bristol boys. He will be assisted by Danny Dugan. The players are: Jack McGinley, Eagles; Paul Smith, Eagles; Franklin Williams, Hawks; Joe Bonner, Hawks; Ralph Cahall, V.F.W.; Tommy Kelly, V.F.W.; Bill Sweeney, Giants; Jesse Vansant, Hawks; Tommy Profy, Hawks; Pete Lewinsky, Giants; Francis Delia, Hawks; Claude Hearn, Hawks; Charles Quici, V.F.W.; and Bill Heffernan, Giants.

Giants Top Eagles, 12-4, at Rohm-Haas

Scoring 10 runs in the first three innings, the Giants walloped the Eagles, 12-4, in a Bristol Little League game on the Rohm & Haas field last evening.

The Giants plastered two Eagles' hurlers for 14 safeties and Bill Sweeney led the pack with four out of four. The only player in the Giants lineup who failed to hit was Petro.

Pete Lewinsky held the Eagles to 8 hits which he kept well scattered.

Bobby Courtright To Make Bid For 50-Mile Crown

LANGHORNE — Bobby Courtwright, the pride and joy of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., and a great favorite with stock car racing fans in these parts, will be making a bid for the 50-mile Regional Championship when that event is presented in conjunction with the 3rd Annual Auto Racing Fair, scheduled for Langhorne Speedway, Sunday, August 2nd. The stock car championship, sanctioned by NASCAR, is just one of four events that will feature 150-miles of racing around the famed Bucks County oval.

Courtwright has long been a favorite of the racing votary. He has always been a spectacular performer as well as a front runner, however, he has never registered a triumph at the famed 'Horne and this he would like to do come August 2nd.

Jerry Russo, popular big car pilot and one of the mainstays of the United Racing Club, will be on hand for the championship event which will feature the sprint cars. Russo, a resident of Webster, Mass., began tooling the big jobs around the half mile tracks back in 1946 and since that time has garnered his share of triumphs. Like any other driver, it is his ambition to attain a triumph around the world's fastest mile—Langhorne—he hopes the Annual Fair will afford the opportunity.

CO-promoters Irvin Fried and Al Gerber anticipate a field of more than 150 drivers to be on hand for the four event card of competition—racing's most unique presentation. In addition to the stocks and sprint cars, the midget autos and foreign versus American stocks will also be featured.

Levittown L. L. Takes On Fairless In Series Monday

LEVITTOWN, July 23 An all-star team from Levittown Little League will start down the baseball trail to the Little World Series next Monday, in a game with the best of Fairless Hills League 1.

The game will start at 6 p. m. at Fairless Hills league park, Irving Olin, president of the Levittown league, announced today.

If they win, the Levittown stars will continue advancing until defeated. The championship of Area B, District 2, will be determined in a three-day tournament ending Wednesday.

Area B will compete with Area A for the district championship July 30 at Oreland, the winner going to the Eastern Pennsylvania sectional tournament August 4, 5 and 7 in Collegeville. Next step is the Little World Series in Williamsport, August 26 to 28.

Striving to bring the Little World Series title to Levittown is a squad representing all four local teams. The players are capable of playing all positions, but Vern Von Sydow, of O'Connor & Co., will probably be their catcher. He is the League's leading home run hitter, with seven long clouts.

Probable pitchers are Ed Carney, of O'Connor; Dick Brown, Bristol Trust Co.; Lou Klein, Meenan Oil Co. and George DeZellar, Levitt & Sons Utility players in the all-star lineup are Erle Fillman, Jack Thomas, Gordon Gray and Mike Hunter, of Meenan Oil; Tom Atkinson and Joe Scheim, Levitt; Joe Steinberg, O'Connor; and William Doey and Harold Palm, Bristol Trust.

No Fund Drive, Little Loop Warns

LEVITTOWN, July 23 — A warning not to give money to boys representing themselves as Little League solicitors was made to residents here today by Irving Olin, league president. He said the league is making no solicitations.

Olin said Levittowners have reported being approached by the boys, who ask for money to buy baseball equipment for the League.

"Please, under no circumstances give to them," Olin said. The League is not soliciting funds. When we need funds we will publicize such a request. Our boys wear baseball uniforms, and issue receipts and membership cards when funds are donated."

Fifth Ward Club Tops Kaiser, 10-8, On Memorial Field

Fifth Ward Sporting Club won a free-hitting Bristol Softball League game from Kaiser Metal Products last evening on Memorial field. Final tabulations were 10-8.

Kaiser Metal outhit the winners 13-11, and had two long distance homers to its credit. Every player in the Kaiser lineup had at least one hit.

But main downfall of the aircraft workers was poor fielding. The losers committed seven errors to help the Warders push runs across the plate.

Kaiser had a 6-5 lead at the end of the seventh, taking the edge when Frank Solarski clouted a home run to center with Marty Braam on base.

However, the lead was short-lived as Fifth Ward came back to tally 4 times in the seventh. After S. Cordisco struck out, Danny Pieo doubled to center. Joe Embiscuso lined out a triple to right, scoring Pieo. Mike DeLisa flied to right but Ernie Pinelli dropped the ball, Embiscuso scoring. Joe Stallone got on via Solarski's error.

Stan Koreyva beat out a hit past short to load the bags. Joe Pica hit to DiMuccie who threw to the plate but Umpire DiNunzio declared DeLisa safe. John Cordisco flied out, the runners holding their bags. Vince DiTanna singled sharply to center, Stallone going home. Up for the second time, S. Cordisco lifted a fly to short.

Bobby Courtright To Make Bid For 50-Mile Crown

LANGHORNE — Bobby Courtwright, the pride and joy of Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., and a great favorite with stock car racing fans in these parts, will be making a bid for the 50-mile Regional Championship when that event is presented in conjunction with the 3rd Annual Auto Racing Fair, scheduled for Langhorne Speedway, Sunday, August 2nd. The stock car championship, sanctioned by NASCAR, is just one of four events that will feature 150-miles of racing around the famed Bucks County oval.

Courtwright has long been a favorite of the racing votary. He has always been a spectacular performer as well as a front runner, however, he has never registered a triumph at the famed 'Horne and this he would like to do come August 2nd.

Levittown L. L. Takes On Fairless In Series Monday

LEVITTOWN, July 23 An all-star team from Levittown Little League will start down the baseball trail to the Little World Series next Monday, in a game with the best of Fairless Hills League 1.

The game will start at 6 p. m. at Fairless Hills league park, Irving Olin, president of the Levittown league, announced today.

If they win, the Levittown stars will continue advancing until defeated. The championship of Area B, District 2, will be determined in a three-day tournament ending Wednesday.

Area B will compete with Area A for the district championship July 30 at Oreland, the winner going to the Eastern Pennsylvania sectional tournament August 4, 5 and 7 in Collegeville. Next step is the Little World Series in Williamsport, August 26 to 28.

Striving to bring the Little World Series title to Levittown is a squad representing all four local teams. The players are capable of playing all positions, but Vern Von Sydow, of O'Connor & Co., will probably be their catcher. He is the League's leading home run hitter, with seven long clouts.

Probable pitchers are Ed Carney, of O'Connor; Dick Brown, Bristol Trust Co.; Lou Klein, Meenan Oil Co. and George DeZellar, Levitt & Sons Utility players in the all-star lineup are Erle Fillman, Jack Thomas, Gordon Gray and Mike Hunter, of Meenan Oil; Tom Atkinson and Joe Scheim, Levitt; Joe Steinberg, O'Connor; and William Doey and Harold Palm, Bristol Trust.

Sen. Taft Expected Back On August 1

By William K. Hutchinson
Chief, Washington Bureau, (INS)

WASHINGTON, July 23—(INS)—Family freinds said today that Sen. Robert A. Taft will return to Washington by Aug. 1 practically cured of a lesion in his left hip bone but with his eminent physicians as puzzled as ever over the cause of his anemic condition.

Taft's family is delighted with results of the exploratory operation made on the Senator at the New York hospital on July 8. They said surgeons found all his major internal organs in excellent condition and free of any malignant disease. They said the surgeons and attending physicians examined his heart, major glands, kidney, liver, intestines, lungs, gall bladder and the stomach itself and reported all to be "100 percent okay."

The Ohio Senator first became aware of a pain in his left hip bone last April while playing golf. His Washington physician discovered he was suffering from anemia although the Senator had never shown any symptoms before the pain started in his hip.

Taft was treated with cortisone and given x-ray therapy for the hip ailment. Recent x-ray photographs at the New York hospital show the lesion has disappeared, indicating the hip bone has returned to a normal condition.

When members of his family visited him recently at the New York hospital, Mr. Republican told them his hip no longer hurt him. To prove his recovery, the Senator dropped his crutches and walked across his hospital room unaided. He said he felt no pain whatever in the hip.

Friends said the physicians have also checked the anemic condition. But the mystery remains as to the cause of both the bone lesion and the anemia.

This was why his physicians agreed that he should undergo the major exploratory operation — to learn whether any internal organ was infected and causing the anemia. Now that the operation proved his internal organs are in excellent condition, for a man of his age, his physicians are studying some further tests.

Mr. Republican told his family he is interested now only in getting out of the confinement of his hospital room and back to his comfortable Georgetown home in Washington. He has no further plans beyond being close enough to the Senate to respond and vote on a highly controversial and close Senate roll-call.

His doctors want him to rest for the next four or five months before resuming his Senate leadership next January. They hope the rest will end his anemic condition even if they never discover the cause. They also want him available for constant checking and rechecking.

In other years, Taft has gone to Murray Bay in Quebec Province Canada for vacations. However the family home there burned to the ground in the spring of 1952 but other members of the Taft family have other homes there. Last fall, Taft visited briefly in the home of a cousin.

But it seems now Taft will have to spend the summer near Washington or Cincinnati in order to be in constant contact with his physicians.

Veterans Q. and A.

Questions and Answers

Q—I'm a World War II veteran back on active duty, and my National Service Life Insurance policy is under waiver. Will I get my insurance dividends all the same?

A—No. National Service Life Insurance policies do not participate in dividends during the period when such premium waiver is in effect.

Q—Will my service at the U. S Military Academy at West Point count toward my entitlement for Korean GI Bill training?

A—No. The time you spent as a cadet at West Point does not count toward your entitlement for training under the Korean GI Bill. The same rule applies to those who attend the U. S Naval Academy in Annapolis and the U. S. Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn.

Q—I am a disabled World War II veteran, and I've just finished Public Law 16 training. Will VA now find me a job?

A—The law does not give VA responsibility for finding employment for disabled veterans. However, if you wish VA will refer you to an appropriate State or Federal employment egency for this purpose.

Q—What happens if a Korean veteran doesn't apply for GI term insurance within 120 days after his separation from service. Is there any chance of his getting it after that time?

A—No. Under the law you must apply and pay your first premium within 120 days after you leave the service. If you wait longer than that, your chances of getting the insurance are gone for good.

Manufacturing High in Area But Agriculture is Low

Manufacturing and building activity in parts of Delaware, southern New Jersey, and the eastern two-thirds of Pennsylvania is high, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia in its July Business Review.

Both strength and weakness are displayed by agriculture, but little improvement is seen in the coal mining situation.

In manufacturing, activity continues at or near capacity in nearly all lines. Pressure on labor markets is growing and shortages already have appeared in places like Lancaster, Williamsport, and York.

Developments throughout the Delaware Valley point up the increasing importance of iron and steel in the diversified industrial pattern of the Third District economy. There is moderate expansion in areas where textiles are important. Full fashioned hosiery producers in Reading, for example, wish for still greater activity but are pleased with the extent of improvement shown thus far.

Construction operations over much of the District and in all major categories continue at high levels. Even so, housing shortages are acute in York, while in Altoona, Bradford, and the Morrisville area of lower Bucks County rapid expansion into suburban areas has created a need for additional schools, transportation facilities and public utility services.

Agricultural conditions are most favorable in York County, where farmers appear to be making money and spending it quite freely on such things as machinery and home appliances. Farmers also are prosperous in northern tier counties of Pennsylvania - the dairy section - and in Potter County, noted for its potatoes. Lancaster County farmers are not doing quite as well as formerly and down in the State of Delaware, where chickens are the crop, poultrymen's fortunes appear to rise and fall with prices received for broilers. In all farming circles the chief complaint is the cost-price squeeze. The severity of this pressure varies widely, being dependent on type of crops, degree of specialization, and location with respect to markets.

Business in both the hard and soft coal areas of Pennsylvania is not as good as elsewhere. In anthracite counties, competition of oil and gas for space heating has resulted in unemployment, which in turn affects retail trade. Farther west, in the bituminous coal areas, business is experiencing some "hard times" because oil and gas also have invaded the market for industrial fuels. Moreover, since Pennsylvania mines are older, deeper, and leaner than those in nearby West Virginia, higher operating costs make it difficult to meet competition from this neighboring state.

Business prospects at both Third District and national levels over the remainder of this year hinge on the behavior of three major spending groups - consumers, government, businessmen. Of the three, consumers will throw the greatest weight - and their behavior is also the hardest to predict.

Vatican Guard 'Swearing-In' Rites Go Back 400 Years

VATICAN CITY — (INS) — The recent swearing-in of the new recruits of the Pope's Swiss Guard was a spectacular ceremony that carried spectators 400 years back into the medieval past.

Preceded by the sound of fifes and the rolling of the great drums that echoed from the rafters of the Vatican's ancient palaces, the Swiss Guards entered the broad Belvedere Court, their steel breastplates gleaming in the sun. On their shoulders they bore the ancient weapons, the halberd and the huge two-handed sword.

The flash of their armor, their helmets topped with dark red plumes, the yellow and blue stripes on their uniforms supplied colorful touches to the scene.

Dignitaries Present

At the command uttered by their colonel—magnificent in his white-plumed helmet, blue tunic and crimson velvet breeches — the men drew up before the reviewing stand The customary assemblage of lay and Church personages, headed by Mgr. Carlo Grano representing the papal secretary of state, was present.

The corps chaplain, Mgr. Krieg, made a brief speech in German (the language of most of the guardsmen).

Now the great moment had arrived. The flag of the Guard—five horizontal stripes of alternate red, yellow and blue with the crest of Pope Pius — was brought to the fore. The recruits were called up one by one.

As each came forward, he grasped the flag in his left hand. He raised his right hand, extending three fingers as a symbol of the Holy Trinity. Then he repeated the oath of allegiance to the Pope, pledging to reject all sins condemned by the Church.

Annual Event

This observance is carried out every year. It commemorates the heroic act of the guardsmen who, in May, 1527, fought to the last man against the numerically superior forces of the Bourbons in order to give Pope Clement VII time to escape. The Guard had only been formed a few years previously, and by this first act proved its worth.

The corps was reconstituted shortly after this "voluntary massacre," and has always demonstrated the greatest loyalty. The corps now has about 80 members. Besides their guard service, the men are without exception engaged in studies of wide variety. Many are students of Italian history and culture.

The salary of the guardsmen is small, but the attraction and traditions of the Guard are so great in the Swiss cantons from which they are recruited that the number of candidates has always exceeded the number of openings. The only time the Guard's strength fell to unusually low levels was during World War II, when all Switzerland was under strict mobilization orders and no Swiss were available for Guard duty.

Pennsylvania Ranks 2nd in Traffic Accidents in Survey

Pennsylvania ranked second, out of the 11 states contained in the northeastern area, in the number of traffic accidents which occurred during June, 1953.

This announcement was made by the sponsors of the nation's first regional highway speed control program, who also added there were 64 fewer deaths during June, 1953, than there were in the same month last year.

During the month 414 persons were killed in accidents in the 11-state area from Maine to Maryland following simultaneous proclamation by the governors of these states of the highway "slowdown" during the period of vacation travel.

In June of 1952, a total of 478 fatalities occurred on the region's highways, according to James R. Barrett, chairman of the Northeastern State Safety Coordinators, the sponsoring group, who is chief of the Police Bureau of New York State's Division of Safety at Albany.

Six states reported fewer deaths last month than in June a year ago, he said. These states had an aggregate drop of 80 in the number of persons killed on their highways. In the five other states there were 16 more deaths than in June, 1952.

Barrett said it is too soon to appraise the effect of the northeastern states' speed control program, but he termed the drop in the area's total fatalities during June "both encouraging and seemingly significant." He added that the region's downward turn in fatality experience came after the 11 states had reported a net increase of 207 deaths in the first five months this year over the totals in the same period a year ago.

During the January-May period this year eight northeastern states had an aggregate increase of 213 traffic fatalities compared with the first five months of 1952. New Jersey and Rhode Island reported declines in the first five months this year of one and five deaths, respectively, while New Hampshire had the same number of fatalities in the identical 1592 period.

Five states had increases ranging from 26 to 44 over the 1952 five-month period, he pointed out, in stressing that as a whole fatalities had been running far heavier in the greater part of the region before the "slowdown" program went into effect—at a time when traffic deaths ordinarily rise in most states.

The area's June fatality experience represented a 13 percent decline from the 1952 total, Barrett said. This contrasts with a 10 percent rise in the region's accident deaths during the first five months this year over 1952.

Comparisons of the June fatality experience in the 11 states in 1953 and 1952 follow:

State	June 1953	June 1952
Connecticut	17	16
Delaware	11	9
Maine	10	12
Maryland	40	49
Massachusetts	43	37
New Hampshire	7	3
New Jersey	56	66
New York	149	153
Pennsylvania	70	118
Rhode Island	7	4

Modern Trend Evidenced By Metal Furniture

CHICAGO — (INS) — Black metal will continue to play an important role in American home furnishings design, judging from the new Good Design exhibition which opened today at the Chicago Summer furniture market.

Two hundred new products typical of "progressive design in home furnishings" were selected from nearly 9,000 entries for the annual show, sponsored by Chicago's Merchandise Mart and the Museum of Modern Art in New York.

About 50 per cent of the pieces shown used metal — mostly black iron. Shiny metals, like chrome-finished steel, also were in evidence, but there was little brass except in accessories.

The items chosen for the exhibition, from chairs to cooking pots, indicated a new trend for modern. Instead of the soft, mellow forms seen last January, this show featured stark, formal shapes and extreme rather than medium colors.

The furniture picked for Good Design exhibition was the work of designers in the "severe modern" school. Chairs almost all featured metal legs. A typical table was a round marble top suspended on three polished chrome stilts.

Fabrics in the exhibition showed clearly defined patterns, with no particular emphasis on texture. The fabric designs were small-scale and neat.

The new lamps in the Good Design show had geometric shapes and were mostly white in color, with plenty of metal trim.

Most of the accessories displayed were in shiny metal, ceramics and wood and basketry. The shiny metals with highly polished finishes outnumbered accessories done in dull black iron. Ceramics showed monochrome color schemes.

For the first time, the Good Design judges picked some decorated dinnerware for the show. Other kitchenware items chosen included gracefully shaped glass tumblers, stainless steel flatware in contemporary design, and bowls that combined good shape with easy handling.

The exhibition will be held in the Merchandise Mart until September 23, when it will move to the museum in New York.

DAYLIGHT SAVING LAWS NOT OBSERVED BY BODY

By DR. JAMES ROEBUCK

The folks who advocate daylight saving time should have a talk with old mother nature. She would explain that merely writing a law on the statute books does not change physical habits of her children.

At the beginning and the end of the period of daylight saving, there is certainly a time when the body is in quite a state of physical upheaval.

Changes in toilet habits, eating and sleeping habits throw the body into quite a turmoil. During the period of adjustment the folks who have regular jobs and schedules to meet might have symptoms of nervousness, irritability, digestive disturbances, and so on.

Mothers will have problems with the children. Along with the above, sleeping habits are especially upset.

Folks dealing with transportation and schedules, not to mention the farmers, really come close to a nervous breakdown.

The nervous system is the mechanism which makes it possible for the various tissues to accommodate themselves to changes of all kinds, and it must be in the most active and responsible condition. Chiropractic health service makes this possible.

Sen. Taft Expected Back On August 1

By William K. Hutchinson
Chief, Washington Bureau, (INS)

WASHINGTON, July 23—(INS)—Family freinds said today that Sen. Robert A. Taft will return to Washington by Aug. 1 practically cured of a lesion in his left hip bone but with his eminent physicians as puzzled as ever over the cause of his anemic condition.

Taft's family is delighted with results of the exploratory operation made on the Senator at the New York hospital on July 8. They said surgeons found all his major internal organs in excellent condition and free of any malignant disease. They said the surgeons and attending physicians examined his heart, major glands, kidney, liver, intestines, lungs, gall bladder and the stomach itself and reported all to be "100 percent okay."

The Ohio Senator first became aware of a pain in his left hip bone last April while playing golf. His Washington physician discovered he was suffering from anemia although the Senator had never shown any symptoms before the pain started in his hip.

Taft was treated with cortisone and given x-ray therapy for the hip ailment. Recent x-ray photographs at the New York hospital show the lesion has disappeared, indicating the hip bone has returned to a normal condition.

When members of his family visited him recently at the New York hospital, Mr. Republican told them his hip no longer hurt him. To prove his recovery, the Senator dropped his crutches and walked across his hospital room unaided. He said he felt no pain whatever in the hip.

Friends said the physicians have also checked the anemic condition. But the mystery remains as to the cause of both the bone lesion and the anemia.

This was why his physicians agreed that he should undergo the major exploratory operation — to learn whether any internal organ was infected and causing the anemia. Now that the operation proved his internal organs are in excellent condition, for a man of his age, his physicians are studying some further tests.

Mr. Republican told his family he is interested now only in getting out of the confinement of his hospital room and back to his comfortable Georgetown home in Washington. He has no further plans beyond being close enough to the Senate to respond and vote on a highly controversial and close Senate roll-call.

His doctors want him to rest for the next four or five months before resuming his Senate leadership next January. They hope the rest will end his anemic condition even if they never discover the cause. They also want him available for constant checking and rechecking.

In other years, Taft has gone to Murray Bay in Quebec Province Canada for vacations. However the family home there burned to the ground in the spring of 1952 but other members of the Taft family have other homes there. Last fall, Taft visited briefly in the home of a cousin.

But it seems now Taft will have to spend the summer near Washington or Cincinnati in order to be in constant contact with his physicians.

DAYLIGHT SAVING LAWS NOT OBSERVED BY BODY

By DR. JAMES ROEBUCK

The folks who advocate daylight saving time should have a talk with old mother nature. She would explain that merely writing a law on the statute books does not change physical habits of her children.

At the beginning and the end of the period of daylight saving, there is certainly a time when the body is in quite a state of physical upheaval.

Changes in toilet habits, eating and sleeping habits throw the body into quite a turmoil. During the period of adjustment the folks who have regular jobs and schedules to meet might have symptoms of nervousness, irritability, digestive disturbances, and so on.

Mothers will have problems with the children. Along with the above, sleeping habits are especially upset.

Folks dealing with transportation and schedules, not to mention the farmers, really come close to a nervous breakdown.

The nervous system is the mechanism which makes it possible for the various tissues to accommodate themselves to changes of all kinds, and it must be in the most active and responsible condition. Chiropractic health service makes this possible.

KITCHEN CLUES . . .

NEW YORK, (INS) — Any backyard cook who wants to earn a chef's honors can startle his friends by turning Turkish.

All you have to do is create a shish kebab dinner in the backyard. It's foolproof to cook as hamburger, but it more impressive to eat, and also permits a grand performance for the benefit of hungry guests.

Shish kabab — meat broiled on a skewer—can of course be made in an oven broiler. But the fun is in cooking it as the Turks do, over charcoal or over an open wood fire.

This Turkish dish is easy to prepare, and most of the work is done off-stage hours before the actual broiling takes place.

The basic receipe, as given by the Turkish Information Office in New York, requires two pounds of leg of lamb, one tablespoon of olive oil, the juice of one-half lemon, one medium onion sliced, three medium tomatoes sliced, green pepper if desired, bay leaves and salt and pepper to taste.

Cut the meat into one-inch cubes. Mix the olive oil and lemon juice and rub the mixture into the meat. Put the meat in a dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and cover with the slices of onion and tomato and a few bay leaves. Now put the whole thing in the refrigerator for at least four or five hours.

When you're ready to broil, arrange the meat on a spit, alternately with the tomatoes and onions and an occasional bay leaf. Add alternate pieces of green pepper for color and extra taste if you like; you can even insert sliced eggplant between the meat on the spit. Then broil it until it's done, turning slowly, and there's your fancy shish kabab.

With this broiled meat, the best taste companion is pliav — rice cooked in the Turkish or Near East fashion.

Here's the Turkish Information Office receipe for pilav: You need two cups of uncooked rice, four medium tomatoes — canned or fresh — one-eighth of a pound of butter, two teaspoons of salt and three-and-one-half cups of liquid. The liquid can be water, meat stock or chicken broth.

Wash and drain the rice well. Cut peeled and seeded tomatoes into small chunks. Heat the butter and tomatoes together until you get a tomato paste, then add the liquid and salt and boil for two minutes. Add the rice while the liquid is boiling. Stir it once, then cover and cook over medium heat without stirring until the rice has absorbed all the liquid. Turn your flame as low as possible and simmer for another 20 minutes. Remove from the stove and leave covered for 30 minutes, but do not stir.

When you serve the pilav, use a flat serving spoon and handle the rice gently so that it stays fluffy.

Shish kabab with pilav and a green salad makes an excellent warm weather outdoor meal. The meat should be prepared and the rice cooked inside the house.

Bring out the rice in its pot and keep it warm while the shish kabab broils and the salad is being mixed. Then all three will be ready to serve at once.

NEW YORK, (INS) — Had any good whale steaks lately?

Whale steaks are getting to be a routine item on restaurant menus and home dinner schedules in the East and Midwest, and pretty soon you'll be able to buy a frozen whale tenderloin in all sections of the U. S.

This whale steak comes from Norway, where it's a commonplace food item. It's on the American market in neat one-pound frozen packages — one pound of whale steak to the package — under a "Norway House" label. These whale steaks, packed in Norway under government supervision, sell for roughly 70 cents a pound package (the price varies in different cities), and each package makes three normal servings or two jumbo servings.

When first introduced, whale steaks caught on like a house a-fire along the East coast because the price of beef was sky-high. Even now that beef prices are lower than they have been in years, whale steaks are worth investigating — if you want something different to eat, or if you want a non-fattening food.

The Institute of Whale Research of the Norwegian Government, and the University of Oslo in Norway, have found that whale meat has more protein than beef, but less calories and less fat.

A quarter-pound of whale meat has 120 calories as compared to 180 for beef. Whale meat averages one per cent fat and 24 per cent protein. Beef averages ten per cent fat and 19 per cent protein.

In spite of figures on protein content, the first question housewives ask is: "How does it taste?"

The Norwegians point out that whale, although it swims in the ocean, is actually a mammal. It is not fishy in flavor and has a blander taste than beef steak.

Incidentally, though whales are mammals, the Vatican has ruled that Roman Catholics may consider whale meat as fish and eat it on Fridays, since whales spend their lives in water.

Whale steak looks like a beef steak, but cannot be treated the same way in cooking. Don't try to broil a whale steak rare as you would a beef tenderloin.

The Norwegians have learned over many years that the best way to handle whale steak is to pan-fry it in butter, using a very hot pan. The whale steak is sold frozen and it's best to use it as soon as possible after taking it out of the freezer and defrosting. Don't try to refreeze it.

When you pan-fry the whale steak you can brown it to your individual taste and treat it in as many ways as you would a beefsteak. Brown it with onions if you like, or dip it into flour and pan-brown it before simmering in stock. You can also dip it in bread crumbs, or fry it in bacon fat. Always serve whale steak hot.

Store raisins in a tightly covered jar to keep them from drying out or becoming hard.

"Mousy" Hair Can Be Made Beauty Accent

By Max Factor, Jr.

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Don't become jealous if your husband or best beau regularly notices the attractive features of other women. Instead, try to capitalize upon this practice to bolster your own ego or teach you some new tricks.

Remember, first of all, that he wouldn't have chosen you as his mate or his date if you, too, did not have features which were attractive and which he admired. Such self assurance, in itself, will make you more charming.

Let his comments help you select hair styles, dress styles or colors, and make-up and grooming procedures which he likes. You must accept these preferences with great care, however. Many a hair-do would not be becoming on you, even though it is the thing which makes another woman stand out. This is also true of dress styles.

The secrets that make a woman stand out and be admired by both men and women are the playing-up of good features, perfect grooming at all times and wearing clothes which fit perfectly and which are proper for the occasion. You can adapt these secrets and be admired more often and more highly by your husband or your beau, and by other women, too.

Attention Worthwhile

"Mousy" hair can be styled and groomed so perfectly that its color is not noticeable. Facial features that may not be the most beautiful in the world can be accented or subdued by careful use of make-up. Clothes can be selected for styles and colors that are most becoming to you and are not disliked by that one man in your life.

Attention to these details will make not only your individual features, but your general appearance outstanding enough to inspire admiration.

* * *

Many women still believe that make-up is a luxury which serves no constructive purpose. Actually, it can be both a corrective and a beautifying agent.

Make-up can bring a degree of complexion smoothness which the average woman can't naturally present. It can also provide an attractive richness of complexion color tone seldom naturally apparent.

In addition, make-up provides the ability to command a sharp definition of features which otherwise is not often evident. Lip lines are practically never as clear and sharp as they can be made to be with lipstick. Eyes are never originally as precisely and beautifully framed as they are when made-up perfectly. The scultural qualities of the face can be clearly and precisely defined and accentuated with rouge.

Then, with the beauty aiding materials just mentioned, there can be illusionary correction of feature defects. Eye make-up application can be contrived so that the eyes seem larger and more beautifully oval. Lipstick patterns can be extended to make naturally not-so-attractive lip lines become very appealing ones. Rouge can be established in patterns which will seemingly change the entire face shape, along much more attractive than natural lines.

Newfoundland Adopts 'Develop Or Perish' Slogan

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. — (INS) —Swept into power four years ago as leader of the pro-Confederation party, Premier Joseph Smallwood of Newfoundland has adopted as the slogan of his Governmeent: "Develop or Perish."

To that end, he has approached financial and industrial concerns in the United States, Germany, Switzerland and the United Kingdom with projects to bring about a diversification of the economy of the new Canadian province.

Having had no previous experience in public affairs, Smallwood appointed as Director of Economic Development Dr. Alfred Valdmanis who at one time was minister of Economics in the Latvian Government, had come to Canada as a refugee.

At the Government's disposal was a hefty nest egg of $42,000,000 representing surplus revenue accumulated by the Commission of Government by which the country had been administered for 15 years.

In New York the Newfoundland and Labrador Corporation (NALCO for short) was established under the chairmanship of Sir William Stephenson. Its purpose was to stimulate interest in the development of the natural resources of the province — its forest areas, water power and minerals.

Plants to manufacture cement, gypsum products, machinery, textiles, leather goods, plywood and other birch products, factories to engage in tanning, glove manufacturing, optical works, shoe manufacturing and other have been set up.

To stimulate fishing operations, loans have been made to local concerns engaged in the industry with the object of introducing new methods of catching and processing the products of the sea.

Windblown Hairdo Smart for Summer

PARIS — (INS) — It will be fashionable an smart this Summer to let your hair be windblown, Paris style.

Hair-stylist Guillaume's "savage line," with a choice of the three "windy" hair-dos, is the latest Paris head-line for girls under 60 and over 16.

"Blizzard", "Sirocco" and "Mistral" are achieved with hair of about two-inch length. The hair is brushed from the back up to the ears and the forehead in paint-stroke points. The forehead is partly covered by paint-stroke curl bangs.

Guillaume wants the new Summer hair-tints radiant and luminous, whether they are blonde, brunette or reddish.

Wild flowers, causally fixed in the wind-swept curls, are appropriate ornaments for the "savage" style.

Gov. Fine Has Thirty Days To Pass On Bills

HARRISBURG, July 23—(INS)— Governor Fine will have 30 days after the General Assembly adjourns finally to consider the legislation which will be dumped on his desk during the closing days .....Bills handed him after passing the legislature must be considered within 10 days while the General Assembly is in session but after adjournment he has a month..... This specification in the commonwealth's constitution has been recognized by governors with but one exception, Arthur H. James.....The former State Superior Court Judge, as was Fine, contended the 30-day limit applied only to legislation which was to be vetoed.....Many bills passed by the assembly during the 1941 session, the longest up to that time in 99 years, were not signed by James within what is recognized as the prescribed time.

The name of Sen. John M. Walker (R) Allegheny appears now and again in political speculation about gubernatorial possibilities in 1954 .....As such, he wants to be right politically and is pushing for a fair employment practices bill..... Walker says he has supported FEPC ever since 1945.....The house-approved FEPC Bill was sent to Walker's committee which governor Fine insists is "packed" against the bill since its membership was set up that way.....Walker denies it.....In 1951, the Judiciary committee, of which he was a member, killed a similar bill but Walker publicly was for the measure.

One of the little-publicized agencies in the State Government is the Board of Arbitration of Claims in the Auditor General's department.....The three-member agency is unique in that its rulings are not appealable to the courts.....It arbitrates claims of contractors doing business with the commonwealth, some of which run up to $100,000 or more.....Members of the board are James Duff, a Pittsburgh attorney but no relation to U. S. Senator Duff, former State Highways Engineer Thomas R. Frame, of Meadville; and James Long, Norristown Bridge Engineer.

A Senate resolution proposing a constitutional amendment to permit voters to consider a graduated income tax in Pennsylvania is headed for the ash can this session.....The resolution, sponsored by Sen. John C. Miller (R) Beaver, is to be sidetracked because of the 135 million dollar sales tax law put on the books recently.....The consensus among the Senate leaders is that the resolution should be shelved because voters would get the idea the goal is to sandbag them with another tax.....Amendments to the constitution must be adopted by two consecutive but separately elected legislatures and then be approved by a majority of the electorate.

10 Rules Offer Good Margin For Safety in Water

Because of the vastness of its recreational areas, offering every outdoor attraction, Minnesota has an unusually serious problem in the safeguarding of the hundreds of thousands of people - residents and visitors alike - who avail themselves of these facilities. Here are ten commandments for water safety, suggested by the Department of Conservation, that should be heeded by everyone who goes vacationing in Minnesota this summer.

1. Before you rent a boat, inspect it carefully. See that it is of good design, construction, and condition.

2. Remember that any boat is dangerous when overloaded. Backlash McSnag, who holds forth on safety matters at the slightest provocation, says, "There ain't no safety in numbers - especially when you're fishing in a boat." The moral is: It's lots more fun and twice as easy to fish two men in a boat than fishin' eight men the first sign of a storm.

4. Never stand up or change seats in a boat.

5. Take the advice of the man from whom you rent the boat. He knows the hazards.

6. Always swim at designated beaches. Don't take the chance of falling into a drop-off you can't see.

7. Always under-estimate your swimming ability. Don't try to demonstrate your prowess by swimming to distant rafts or to sand bars that usually disappear when you reach them.

8. Never let children out of your sight when near the water. Teach them to respect the water and to be aware of the dangers that it holds.

9. If your boat capsizes, stay with it as long as it floats or until help arrives.

10. In casting from a boat in which there are other people, remember that a fish hook is sharp and if caught in the eye or face may cause serious injury.

Hot Weather Use For Old Cosmetics

CHICAGO — (INS) — Now is the time to put that accumulation of creams, colognes and lotions, which you sampled and discarded in favor of others, to good "hot weather" use.

Besides bringing order to your dresser space, emptying the content of these bottles and jars can be an aid to beauty and economy.

You can cool off — fragrantly — in tepid baths spiked with colognes that haven't the right scents to become your old standbys.

And, if your hair is tending to become oily in the warm weather, try putting some cologne in your rinse waters — the alcoholic content helps cut the oil.

Those jars of face creams that just aren't your brand can be brought into action to soften callouses on your feet and smoothen elbows and knees.

Try using hand lotions that "never took" to remove that scaled look from your legs, stripped of their eye-concealing nylon stockings.

And you are bound to have some face powders that are either too dark or too light. You can use these to mix with your favorite powder — either to pale it or to build up the color of your skin.

Barbecue Chefs Need Wifely Aid

DALLAS — (INS) — A murmur of admiration sweeps the patio when the husband of the house steps up to the barbecue pit, dons asbestos gloves and masterfully sets about to prove only men understand outdoor cooking.

However, the chances are that long before the guests arrived, his wife had set out all the equipment, started the fire, run the errands and done about everything but actually plunk the steaks on the coals.

So, for the loving wife who doesn't mind doing the work while hubby gets the applause, here are a few helpful hints.

Place next to the pit a long-handled fork, spoon and spatula, a poker, matches and a pair of tongs for turning and lifting foods. A big skillet with a long-handle is needed if anything is to be fried. Also essential are a sharp carving knife, a brush to apply barbecue sauce, rolls of paper toweling, a tray of seasoning and a long-handled, hinged wire broiler for broiling fish or steaks.

Be sure and start the fire about one hour before you begin cooking so that a deep bed of glowing coals will be ready. Packaged hickory discs can be tossed in with the chacoal if a hickory smoke flavor is desired.

Also remember to take the meat out of the freezer at least one hour before your hubsand plans to cook it and remind him to trim all except a minimum of fat from the meat.

Many times it is a good idea to put a sauce pan down in the firebox at the point where the fat will drain off a ham or whatever is on the spit. In that way, you have no smoke and the fat drips into the pan for a much cleaner procedure.

Avoid Crew Cut For Your Lawn

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. — (INS) — "Crew cuts" for lawns, especially during periods of drought, have been denounced by experts.

University of Tennessee horticulturists at Knoxville explained that height and watering are important in maintaining good lawns during dry spells. They continued: "An inch and a half after clipping, or two inches in less-used areas, is a good height for lawn grass. Too close clipping may actually kill the grass by allowing too-rapid drying of the soil and by depriving the roots of foliage needed for proper growth."

During droughts, the specialist pointed out, at least an inch of water must be applied on the average soil before the grass is really benefitted.

They found that a good soaking every ten days is much better than a mere "dust removal" treatment every day.

Ex-King's Estate Spurs 'Treasure' Hunt

By Agence France Presse

MORTAGNE — (INS) — The far-flung properties of ex-King Carol of Romania, only a few weeks after his death have already become disputed prizes in several civil trials. One of the most important and complex of these will be held in Mortagne, a small town in northwest France.

The former soverign's love life was to say the least, tumultuous. It is not generally known that before he wed Princess Helen of Greece — who in turn was followed by the celebrated Magda Lupescu —Carol's first wife was a certain Mme. Marie Lambrino. He married her in Odessa, Russia, in 1918.

Carol's father, King Ferdinand, found the young prince's choice highly unsuitable and had the marriage annulled by the Romanian Supreme Court in Bucharest.

But the King's action came a little late. Shortly afterwards a son was born. Carol recognized this son as his own, although the boy could claim no legal princely rights. He was brought up in France under his mother's name, which the Romanian judges had decreed was his only rightful title.

Fabulous Fortune

The fortune left by the late Carol is said to be fabulous and is known to be scattered through several countries of Europe. His common-law wife, Magda Lupescu, may legally claim one-half of the former king's possessions.

The remainder should normally be divided among his other legal heirs, as Carol left no will. His son by the marriage to Princess Helen, ex-King Michael, has reportedly already taken legal steps to claim his share of the legacy.

It is now reported that Mircea Lambrino, Carol's son by his first marriage, has also initiated legal action for a share in his father's property.

This suit will be tried before a French court in Mortagne. Under French law, whatever the nationality of the litigants, the French courts have jurisdiction in any case involving the inheritance of property located in France.

Superb Chateau

The particular property involved in Mircea Lambrino's suit is a rare prize indeed. It is the superb little chateau of Belleme, situated on a lovely site not far from Mortagne.

This property had been sold by Mme. Lupescu before the ex-King's death, but without his knowledge. Lambrino has therefore demanded that the Mortagne courts abrogate this sale by virtue of the rights which he claims to his father's legacy.

Whether Lambrino's rivals in the contest for the chateau will contest his status as Carol's son is not yet known. If they do, it will be up to the French judges to decide whether or not he is a true heir to the ex-King before they consider his claim to the lovely chateau of Belleme.

Bathing Suits Need Special Care

NEW YORK (INS) — It's hard to be a bathing beauty if your bathing suit is soiled and wrinkled.

Swim suits do get soiled whether you've been in the briny deep or in a cholorine treated pool, and just because you've been up to your neck in water doesn't mean your bathing suit has been washed.

Proper care of a bathing suit begins as soon as you take it off.

Instead of wadding it up into a soggy ball and tossing it in the car trunk, or stuffing it into a small beach bag, rinse it out in fresh clear water and fold it neatly. Carry along a piece of plastic material for wrapping the folded suit. This is a sure-fire method to keep it in shape and prevent messy dripping.

When you're home again, shake out the suit over the wash tub.Use a small medium bristled brush to chase dirt and gritty sand from the seams, folds, openwork, or ruffles. Squeeze the suit through warm soap suds, don't rub the fabric against itself to help it to come clean. This only wears away the fibers and, in time weakens whole garment. Give the suit two clear water rinsings. Cup elesticized or wool suits in your hands; don't wring or twist them.

If possible, hang suits up to dry in the air or spread them on the ground over a sheet of plastic. When nearly dry, finger press the suits that have built-in bras or foundations. If the suit has an elastic nipped-in waist, it's a good idea to pinch it in with both hands to ease out the excess moisture so that it will quickly zip back into place.

GARDEN NOTES

by

Walter W. Pitzonka, Jr.

With the arrival of all our excellent summer cut-flowers, it is definitely a fine time to consider entrance into local flower shows. Don't get the idea that flower shows are places where experts and only experts show their prize cut-flowers. A flower show is an opportunity for every flower grower and amateur gardener to take pride in their flowers. In every flower show, there are various classes covering professional groups down through the first time exhibitionist. It is desirable for you, no matter what class, to get interested in your own local garden shows. The next flower show should be your ticket to greater floral appreciation.

Weren't those showers this week really welcomed in this area? I know every gardener loved to see those gorgeous parcels of "aqua" falling upon their long thirsted individuals of the plant kingdom.

Everything can be transferred into a garden of diseased plants if proper care is not afforded. It is obvious that during dry periods diseases are held to a minimum. This is because it is dry and a poor condition for most plant diseases. However, a humid warm condition transforms a peaceful healthy garden into a mess of epidemic producing organisms. Keep a constant eye on your garden to prevent this horrible condition. Use liberal applications of recommended fungicides periodically.

Have you noticed that your tomatoes have an extra heavy set of fruit this season? The reason is, of course, the dry warm weather. This is nice weather for the traveling of insects, who are needed for pollination of flowers and set of fruit. The only catch to this extra set of fruit is that fruit ripens slower than when the set is slimmer. With this silght moisture we've had, an increase of ripening will be noted.

Another reminder to you amateur growers is to keep pinching off the developing flower buds of your hardy Chrysanthemums or "Mums." This removal of flower buds should continue up to about August 10th. After this time the days are getting shorter and the real flower buds will develop.

Onions shouldn't be removed from the ground until the tops are turned brown and bent over. Don't break off green tops. This breaking of the onion tops diminishes the keeping quality of the onion bulb itself. After the tops are brown and bent, pull out the entire plant and let them lay in the hot sun for about a week. This conditions the onion bulb for greater storage and increased flavor. Discard all diseased onions because these onions will ruin the other bulbs.

Until next week at this time, happy gardening!

For a quick way of making vegetable soup, put one-half cup pureed or finely chopped cooked vegetables into two cups of thin white sauce. Season with grated onion, if desired.

COMMUNITY SERVICE RUNS IN THE FAMILY

Francis R. Lingousky

Bernardine L. Lingousky

These personable young people—both natives of Hazleton—are brother and sister.

They're related in another way, too. Both are members of the Bell Telephone family. Bernardine Lingousky, now in her twelfth year with the Company, is an instructor in our Hazleton Business Office. Her brother Francis, an Army veteran of World War II and a reserve officer, is a skilled Repairman in the Hazleton Central Office.

There's nothing unusual about this family feeling for telephone service. Among Pennsylvania's nearly thirty-seven thousand telephone people you'll find many cases where two, three and even four members of a family have followed one another into this special form of community service. And it is this very spirit of community service, seldom mentioned but always evident, that makes your telephone so dependable in emergencies, so useful every day in the year.

Ex-King's Estate Spurs 'Treasure' Hunt

By Agence France Presse

MORTAGNE — (INS) — The far-flung properties of ex-King Carol of Romania, only a few weeks after his death have already become disputed prizes in several civil trials. One of the most important and complex of these will be held in Mortagne, a small town in northwest France.

The former soverign's love life was to say the least, tumultuous. It is not generally known that before he wed Princess Helen of Greece — who in turn was followed by the celebrated Magda Lupescu —Carol's first wife was a certain Mme. Marie Lambrino. He married her in Odessa, Russia, in 1918.

Carol's father, King Ferdinand, found the young prince's choice highly unsuitable and had the marriage annulled by the Romanian Supreme Court in Bucharest.

But the King's action came a little late. Shortly afterwards a son was born. Carol recognized this son as his own, although the boy could claim no legal princely rights. He was brought up in France under his mother's name, which the Romanian judges had decreed was his only rightful title.

Fabulous Fortune

The fortune left by the late Carol is said to be fabulous and is known to be scattered through several countries of Europe. His common-law wife, Magda Lupescu, may legally claim one-half of the former king's possessions.

The remainder should normally be divided among his other legal heirs, as Carol left no will. His son by the marriage to Princess Helen, ex-King Michael, has reportedly already taken legal steps to claim his share of the legacy.

It is now reported that Mircea Lambrino, Carol's son by his first marriage, has also initiated legal action for a share in his father's property.

This suit will be tried before a French court in Mortagne. Under French law, whatever the nationality of the litigants, the French courts have jurisdiction in any case involving the inheritance of property located in France.

Superb Chateau

The particular property involved in Mircea Lambrino's suit is a rare prize indeed. It is the superb little chateau of Belleme, situated on a lovely site not far from Mortagne.

This property had been sold by Mme. Lupescu before the ex-King's death, but without his knowledge. Lambrino has therefore demanded that the Mortagne courts abrogate this sale by virtue of the rights which he claims to his father's legacy.

Whether Lambrino's rivals in the contest for the chateau will contest his status as Carol's son is not yet known. If they do, it will be up to the French judges to decide whether or not he is a true heir to the ex-King before they consider his claim to the lovely chateau of Belleme.

ANDALUSIA

Barbara Melia sustained a broken arm recently when she fell from a swing.

Stanley Smith is confined to his home with a virus infection.

Bathing Suits Need Special Care

NEW YORK (INS) — It's hard to be a bathing beauty if your bathing suit is soiled and wrinkled.

Swim suits do get soiled whether you've been in the briny deep or in a cholorine treated pool, and just because you've been up to your neck in water doesn't mean your bathing suit has been washed.

Proper care of a bathing suit begins as soon as you take it off.

Instead of wadding it up into a soggy ball and tossing it in the car trunk, or stuffing it into a small beach bag, rinse it out in fresh clear water and fold it neatly. Carry along a piece of plastic material for wrapping the folded suit. This is a sure-fire method to keep it in shape and prevent messy dripping.

When you're home again, shake out the suit over the wash tub.Use a small medium bristled brush to chase dirt and gritty sand from the seams, folds, openwork, or ruffles. Squeeze the suit through warm soap suds, don't rub the fabric against itself to help it to come clean. This only wears away the fibers and, in time weakens whole garment. Give the suit two clear water rinsings. Cup elesticized or wool suits in your hands; don't wring or twist them.

If possible, hang suits up to dry in the air or spread them on the ground over a sheet of plastic. When nearly dry, finger press the suits that have built-in bras or foundations. If the suit has an elastic nipped-in waist, it's a good idea to pinch it in with both hands to ease out the excess moisture so that it will quickly zip back into place.

GARDEN NOTES

by

Walter W. Pitzonka, Jr.

With the arrival of all our excellent summer cut-flowers, it is definitely a fine time to consider entrance into local flower shows. Don't get the idea that flower shows are places where experts and only experts show their prize cut-flowers. A flower show is an opportunity for every flower grower and amateur gardener to take pride in their flowers. In every flower show, there are various classes covering professional groups down through the first time exhibitionist. It is desirable for you, no matter what class, to get interested in your own local garden shows. The next flower show should be your ticket to greater floral appreciation.

Weren't those showers this week really welcomed in this area? I know every gardener loved to see those gorgeous parcels of "aqua" falling upon their long thirsted individuals of the plant kingdom.

Everything can be transferred into a garden of diseased plants if proper care is not afforded. It is obvious that during dry periods diseases are held to a minimum. This is because it is dry and a poor condition for most plant diseases. However, a humid warm condition transforms a peaceful healthy garden into a mess of epidemic producing organisms. Keep a constant eye on your garden to prevent this horrible condition. Use liberal applications of recommended fungicides periodically.

Have you noticed that your tomatoes have an extra heavy set of fruit this season? The reason is, of course, the dry warm weather. This is nice weather for the traveling of insects, who are needed for pollination of flowers and set of fruit. The only catch to this extra set of fruit is that fruit ripens slower than when the set is slimmer. With this slight moisture we've had, an increase of ripening will be noted.

Another reminder to you amateur growers is to keep pinching off the developing flower buds of your hardy Chrysanthemums or "Mums." This removal of flower buds should continue up to about August 10th. After this time the days are getting shorter and the real flower buds will develop.

Onions shouldn't be removed from the ground until the tops are turned brown and bent over. Don't break off green tops. This breaking of the onion tops diminishes the keeping quality of the onion bulb itself. After the tops are brown and bent, pull out the entire plant and let them lay in the hot sun for about a week. This conditions the onion bulb for greater storage and increased flavor. Discard all diseased onions because these onions will ruin the other bulbs.

Until next week at this time, happy gardening!

For a quick way of making vegetable soup, put one-half cup pureed or finely chopped cooked vegetables into two cups of thin white sauce. Season with grated onion, if desired.

Britain Rates Highly Princess' Sweetheart

By Charles A. Smith
(INS Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 23—(INS)—Peter Townsend was loaned to King George VI by the Air Ministry in 1944, as equerry for a maximum of three years.

It was the measure of his success as a Courtier that he stayed in the Royal Service for nine years, and possibly would have remained there for life but for the world-wide publicity linking his name romantically with Princess Margaret.

Townsend was selected by the Air Council to fill the coveted position of "Equerry of Honor," under the system set up by George VI to recognize outstanding young officers of the British Armed Services.

George VI used to say that he "never had a better youngster" around him than Townsend. Queen Mother Elizabeth regarded him with affection, called him a "gay and amusing companion."

Peter Townsend and his beautiful young wife moved into one of the so-called "grace and favor" rent-free homes in Windsor Castle grounds, named Adelaide Cottage.

Their intimate, informal cocktail parties in their small home were graced by members of the Royal family, including the present Queen Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip.

The women of the Royal family in particular were attracted to the delightful Townsend home, with its informality and absence of starchiness.

And Peter Townsend rapidly became a great favorite of all the members of the Royal family, particularly of Queen Mother Elizabeth. The brilliant young officer, with his gay and infectious laugh and saucy wit, captivated her.

Townsend's friendship with Princess Margaret was a natural and inevitable one. He watched her grow up from teen-age girlhood into womanhood. She obviously admired his handsome looks, his scintillating conversation, his "man of the world" air, and his fine war record as an aviator.

Pretty soon Townsend was appointed Deputy Master of George VI's Royal household, and prior to the Royal family's official visit to South Africa in 1947 he was sent out to advise the South African government on protocol. He went again to South Africa with the King and Queen, and with the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret, for the official tour.

Peter Townsend grew greatly in favor an esteem with George VI and the present Queen Mother Elizabeth on that trip. He also became warm friends with both the normally shy Royal Princesses.

But he scored his greatest success with George VI, who discovered in him a fine raconteur, a grand shot, and a man willing to yarn with him for hours about guns, dogs, flying, and other he-man pursuits.

Back in England, Townsend spent more and more time on his Royal duties, went everywhere with the Royal family, and became one of their most trusted "front" men. When the Royal family went on vacation, to Balmoral Castle in Scotland for example, it was Townsend who inevitably was chosen as companion.

Peter Townsend was "amongst those present" when Princess Margaret celebrated her 21st birthday, was at Balmoral that same year and went riding almost daily with Margaret. His duties in the household, and his comparative youth, made him the inevitable companion of Margaret. They rode together, attended horse shows, and he escorted her when she dined out or danced. A fine dancer, he was often seen on the dance floor with the young Princess, at supper tables with her as she spread her wings.

And because he was a born pilot and his enthusiasm about flying was infectious, Princess Margaret made him her personal pilot when she entered planes in the King's cup air races of 1949 and 1950.

It was small wonder that Townsend was being described as "one of the ablest men in the Royal household," was given Royal recognition by being awarded a commandership of the Royal Victoria Order, the sovereign's personal order.

But there was a cloud on the horizon, affecting his personal life. In December, 1952, the British newspapers discreetly published the news that he had secured a divorce from his wife on the grounds of her misconduct with John De Laszlo, son of the famed portrait painter.

And for the first time whispers began to be circulated that Princess Margaret was in love with the handsome aviator.

It was significant that those who most assiduously spread the talk of a romance were the youngsters in Margaret's own set.

Townsend, the soul of correct behavior, was silent, and had to remain silent.

Humor, Fun Marks County Troop At Jamboree City

Humor, intermixed with lots of fun, continues to feature the Bucks County Boy Scouts attending the Third National Jamboree in California.

Reports from the Jamboree troop today features a "swimless swim" in the Pacific. The scouts were all ready for the cooling off dip in the ocean when it was discovered the doctors forgot to hand out "buddy tickets" to permit them to swim. The boys buried their disappointment in a sand football game and some tumbling.

In the afternoon of the same day, one Scout rushed to the supper table and sat down hard—too hard, as the seat, table and food collapsed—giving the youngster the appearance of a scrambled stew.

Despite these incidents, the boys report they are enjoying the Jamboree, and particularly are proud of their rustic, beautiful gateway depicting Washington crossing the Delaware. The entrance stands 14 feet high, 14 feet wide in the front and ten feet wide in the rear, and is visible from a great distance.

Begin Painting Eiffel Tower

PARIS — (INS) — The world-famous Eiffel Tower is undergoing a paint job. The 63-year-old tower, which has been repainted approximately every seven years, will require 35 tons of special rust-resistant paint and 27,000 man-hours of work.

The tower is being painted in three shades of Cognac brown, in a way symbolic of one of France's greatest gifts to the palate of mankind.

If mothballs or mothcakes are placed in the top of a closet or chest, clothing doesn't get maximum protection. The chemical fumes are heavier than air and rise instead of falling. The best place for moth preventives is in a position lower than the garment they are to protect.

Humor, Fun Marks County Troop At Jamboree City

Humor, intermixed with lots of fun, continues to feature the Bucks County Boy Scouts attending the Third National Jamboree in California.

Reports from the Jamboree troop today features a "swimless swim" in the Pacific. The scouts were all ready for the cooling off dip in the ocean when it was discovered the doctors forgot to hand out "buddy tickets" to permit them to swim. The boys buried their disappointment in a sand football game and some tumbling.

In the afternoon of the same day, one Scout rushed to the supper table and sat down hard—too hard, as the seat, table and food collapsed—giving the youngster the appearance of a scrambled stew.

Despite these incidents, the boys report they are enjoying the Jamboree, and particularly are proud of their rustic, beautiful gateway depicting Washington crossing the Delaware. The entrance stands 14 feet high, 14 feet wide in the front and ten feet wide in the rear, and is visible from a great distance.

Begin Painting Eiffel Tower

PARIS — (INS) — The world-famous Eiffel Tower is undergoing a paint job. The 63-year-old tower, which has been repainted approximately every seven years, will require 35 tons of special rust-resistant paint and 27,000 man-hours of work.

The tower is being painted in three shades of Cognac brown, in a way symbolic of one of France's greatest gifts to the palate of mankind.

If mothballs or mothcakes are placed in the top of a closet or chest, clothing doesn't get maximum protection. The chemical fumes are heavier than air and rise instead of falling. The best place for moth preventives is in a position lower than the garment they are to protect.

Civilian Pilots Top Half Million

WASHINGTON, (INS) — The amazing growth of civil aviation in the United States is illustrated by the fact that today more airplanes are registered in California and Texas alone than existed in the entire United States when the second World War broke out.

"Planes," official publication of Aircraft Industries Association, reports that 18 times as many Americans hold civil pilots' licenses as before World War II. The Nation's more than 580,000 civil pilots now outnumber the combined population of Delaware and Nevada. They man a vast fleet of 88,000 civil aircraft.

These civil pilots use a total of 6,237 airports — an average of 130 airfields in every state in the union. In 1939, the U. S. had only 2,280 airports — an average of 47 per state.

In the event of a national emergency, these light aircraft — only one in every 40 are airliners — have a capacity of more than seven million seat miles per hour, an invaluable transportation potential for civil defense.

STYLE-WISE . . .

PARIS, (INS) — Paris designers have some new ideas for practical and pretty Summer accessories.

A milliner has invented the "Bikini-cap." This device is a turban-like cap, which comes over the ears and ties under the chin. Quite conservative-looking — but, at any desired moment this "chapeau" is transformable into an eye-opening swim suit.

Pigtail Glasses

A Schiaparelli gag is guaranteed to make you look like a teen-ager — at least from a distance. It is a pair of sunglasses with a raffia frame and a pair of raffia pigtails dangling down at the ears.

If you fear the sun, designer Givenchy suggests a square sunshade. Made from the dress fabric or from a contrasting bright colored cotton, this old accessory with the new up-to-date shape will make you look like a Southern Belle.

Paquin makes a red and white striped "parasol hat," complete with ribs and cotton ball trimming round the brim.

If, on the other hand, you want to expose yourself to the sun, Schiaparelli has invented the right belt for you. It's made of linen and has a revolver-holster. The "gun" is a bottle of sun-oil. The belt can be worn over a dress, a playsuit or even a bathing suit.

If your hair is short you still can wear a chignon. At Paquin, you can buy cotton "hair" by the yard. You wind it into a knot and pin it to your short curls.

There are also ready-made chignons, knitted in cotton. If you are blonde you can wear a blue or green one; for brunettes, red or yellow are particularly smart.

An antique French chandelier is one source for your new Summer jewelry. "Tear-drops" or cut glass and dangling from a little glass rosette are the latest earrings "a la Paquin." These chandelier earrings look pretty with a simple Summer frock and dressy with any evening outfit.

Cool Look

For the "Cool Look" Schiaparelli has designed a necklace of "icicles," made of transparent glass. They are long and tapering, of course, like the real thing, and are to be worn threaded around the neck.

The most practical bracelet in Paris is a simple gilded model with three leather bags attached to it. The bags are bright red, green and yellow and just right for holding lipstick, hanky and cigarettes. The bag-bracelet can also be fixed to the belt.

Paris has even used the waste-paper basket as a new Summery accessory. At Givenchy a chick Summer bag is made of a wicker paper-basket, edged and strapped with leather.

Urges Teenagers' Thank-You Notes

NEW YORK, July . . . (INS — Modern misses usually mind their manners, but an etiquette expert says they'd do well to imitate the gracious ladies of another era and "take pen in hand" more often.

Frequently, today's teen - agers think that an appreciative smile or a telephone message fills the bill when it comes to saying thank you for something pleasant that's happened to them. Actually, however, there are certain occasions that definitely call for a written note to express your appreciation.

For instance, it isn't enough to merely say thank you for a graduation gift, a birthday present or a weekend visit away from home, points out Mona Keene of the Hallmark Greeting Card Co. It's a traditional rule that a card or note, however brief, must follow.

If what to write stops you, here are some suggestions from Mrs. Keene that will make the bread-and-butter note easier to dash off.

Remember that a note is simply written conversation, so write as you talk. Be informal and say what you would if you were thanking a friend or relative personally for the gift or good time.

Be specific. Mention the gift by name, perhaps tell what you plan to do with it or how you will use it. In the case of a visit, point out some highlight of the weekend and say how much you enjoyed it.

Be appreciative and sincere. Stilted phrases should be avoided, write as though you meant your thanks and not as though you were performing a chore. Write immediately, too, and your enthusiasm for the gift or trip will be sure to show.

As a teen-ager, you're expected to be gay as well as gracious. So, choose note papers that are bright and appropriate in color and pattern. Select flower designs, perhaps, or seasonal motifs, or one of the popular teen illustrations.

Be brief but not abrupt. Fill two or three pages of the small note paper so that you appear to be enjoying writing.

Black, blue or blue-black inks are most acceptable but colored inks that match or blend with the tones of the note papers are new and fun to use. Write legibly and keep in mind that blots or crossed-out words will show you have few social graces.

U. S. Penmanship Just A Scrawl?

NEW YORK, (INS) — Does your handwriting resemble old Egyptian heiroglyphics? If so, don't feel bad because you're not alone. Most Americans write that way, according to Frank D. Waterman, president of the Waterman Pen Company, Inc.

Penmanship may have been one of the three "R's" in the days of the little red schoolhouse, but modern teaching methods have practically abolished the "Riting" from "Reading, 'Riting and 'Rithmetic" in many of our educational institutions.

"In fact, American penmanship as a whole is falling far behind that of Europeans in artistry and legibility," Mr. Waterman declares.

Waterman says the average American selects a stiff point when he purchases a fountain pen. Such a point writes a uniform line with no variations in width — a perfect instrument for scribbling down a few notes, an illegible signature on a typewritten letter or check. The writing from such a point has as much individuality as a rubber stamp.

Europeans have exactly the opposite preferences in writing equipment. A Continental wants a point as flexible as a fishing rod. Such a point spreads under pressure and makes for a very fancy script of varying shades and widths according to the pressure applied. Watch a Latin sign his name and you'll see him meticulously form each letter with a variety of shaded areas and a flourishing curlicue at the end. This curlicue is so common in European countries that it has become just as much an identifying trademark of the writer as the signature itself.

HULMEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Longhurst, Concord, N. C., formerly of Hulmeville, will enplane in North Carolina Friday for a flight to New York, N. Y. On Saturday they will fly to England. They will be guests of a relative in London for one week, and will spend two weeks touring England and Scotland. The Longhurst will also spend about 10 days in Paris.

On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jackson concluded a weeks' vacation at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Peterson, Millville, N. J.

Breeding Fish is Pleasant Hobby For Croydon Woman

CROYDON, July 23 — Having received 20 tropical fish for a Thanksgiving day present last year, Mrs. Raymond Taylor decided she would like to breed the fish and now has an overwhelming total of 60 times that amount.

Each day, however, brings more babies to be tended as there is always a waiting line in the maternity ward aquarium, but the mothers usually pick the week-end to keep Mrs. Taylor busy. After having asked her husband for the fish, Mrs. Taylor now wonders if she shouldn't have been satisfied with something less fruitful.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor live at 1209 Pennsylvania avenue, and have set aside one section of their basement for 27 of their 29 aquariums. Two aquariums hold over 45 gallons of water and one holds 75. Mrs. Taylor tells her grand-daughter that as the fish grow, they get promoted from one tank to another until all the same species are in one of the larger tanks.

Each acquarium is equipped with a filter which Taylor makes. Each filter is attached to a compressor which also allows air to enter the tanks. Many of the aquariums have heaters, although they aren't necessarily required in the summer.

The Taylors will have to equip each tank with one or more heaters when it starts getting a little colder, as the water must be kept at the same temperature all of the time.

The Taylors have two large aquariums upstairs in which they keep a variety of fish, including a commersoni (cat fish) which helps to keep the tank clean. A large mystery snail is housed in the other aquarium, along with a smaller cat fish. Being good tank cleaners, a cat fish can be found in each aquarium.

Of the 23 varieties of fish being raised by the Taylors, several of them are odd in shape as well as being different in color.

The scalares, the technical word for angel fish, has the most unusual shape of any, and then the scissor fish, with its tail moving like a pair of scissors, comes next in line.

Several of the fish are more handsome in color, such as the cherry red sword tails, the green sword tails, the red velvet swordtails, the golden guppies, and the salt and pepper fish. The zebra danios are colored just as their name implies. Veil tail guppies are the most expensive fish in the collection.

Feeding the many fish such food as worms, small bugs, and dehydrated beef keeps Mrs. Taylor busy much of her day. Taylor is attempting to breed his own worms and bugs so he won't have to go "bugging" every day. The fish usually are fed three times a day.

Mrs. Taylor says, "As the fish grow, they go." She would like to stick mainly to the breeding of the red swords, black mollies, veil tail guppies, golden guppies, and the zebra danios, and as the other kinds get big enough, sell them.

The Taylors have two large aquariums upstairs in which they keep a variety of fish, including a commersoni (cat fish) which helps to keep the tank clean. A large mystery snail is housed in the other aquarium, along with a smaller cat fish. Being good tank cleaners, a cat fish can be found in each aquarium.

Of the 23 varieties of fish being raised by the Taylors, several of them are odd in shape as well as being different in color.

The scalares, the technical word for angel fish, has the most unusual shape of any, and then the scissor fish, with its tail moving like a pair of scissors, comes next in line.

Several of the fish are more handsome in color, such as the cherry red sword tails, the green sword tails, the red velvet swordtails, the golden guppies, and the salt and pepper fish. The zebra danios are colored just as their name implies. Veil tail guppies are the most expensive fish in the collection.

Feeding the many fish such food as worms, small bugs, and dehydrated beef keeps Mrs. Taylor busy much of her day. Taylor is attempting to breed his own worms and bugs so he won't have to go "bugging" every day. The fish usually are fed three times a day.

Mrs. Taylor says, "As the fish grow, they go." She would like to stick mainly to the breeding of the red swords, black mollies, veil tail guppies, golden guppies, and the zebra danios, and as the other kinds get big enough, sell them.

WHAT A PERFORMER!
WHAT A BEAUTY!
WHAT A BUY!

Unless you've actually driven a Pontiac with Dual-Range Performance*, you can't appreciate how nimbly it handles in traffic and how economically it cruises the open road with plenty of power to spare.

• Add to Pontiac's plus-performance its distinctively beautiful styling, its luxurious interior appointments, its effortless Power Steering*, and you have a car that matches any on the road.

And when you learn you can get all this at a price only a few dollars above the lowest, you'll say, "Here's the car for me!"

Why not take the first step toward Pontiac ownership right now? We're ready and anxious to let you drive it yourself for first-hand proof that Pontiac is the best buy of all, from any standpoint. *Optional at extra cost.

Dollar for Dollar you can't beat a Pontiac
